77 MINERS, TRAPPED IN SHAFT, CUT OFF BY SHEET OF FIRE

Rescuers in Blast-Torn Mine Forced to Halt Efforts to Save.

HOPE FOR ENTOMBED MEN FELT BY CHIEF

Air Below 500-Foot Level Is Full of Gas and Smoke; 16 Dead by Explosion.

Fairmont, W. Va., May 1 (By A. P.). The fate of 77 miners, entombed in the Everettsville mine for 24 hours, was undetermined tonight as rescue crews worked frantically to extinguish a fire in the blast-torn tunnels.

All rescue work was suspended today while mining experts fought the flames.

The known dead numbered sixteen, and rescue leaders feared that when they conquered the blaze and reached the trapped men they, too, will be added to the list of fatalities. Nine injured men were in hospitals here, one in a critical condition.

Officials of the New England Fuel & Transportation Co., owner of the slope, said late today that fire had been burning in the workings since last night.

During the day many bags of cement and other building materials were taken into the drift mouth. This led to the general belief that the burning section of the mine was to be sealed off.

Hope for Entombed Men.

Rescue workers penetrating the mine late tonight encountered difficulties that indicated they would not reach the trapped miners until some time tomorrow.

R. M. Lambie, chief of the West Virginia department of mines, said rescue crews were being badly hampered by an extensive fire raging in the mine. The rescue crews, he said, had penetrated the mine for 3,000 feet, or about 700 feet from where it is believed the 77 men were trapped in the third south entry. There was little chance, he said, that the men could be reached until tomorrow.

Chief Lambie, however, gave the first word of hope that some of the men at least may be found alive.

"There is a hope," he said, "that some of the men are in the north entry or on the opposite side of the mine entry from the fire area. If this is true there is a possibility that they might be found alive."

Seven of the known dead were brought out of the mine late last night. These men, at work near the entry, were within 500 feet of the mine mouth when rescuers came upon them. Four others in this crew were alive, but they died shortly after reaching the surface. Two men were killed outright as the sheet of flame swept through the tipple, and two others, burned at the same time, died in a hospital.

Air Heavy With Gas.

From the time the explosion occurred until early this morning the helmeted rescue crews rushed their way forward. They found the danger mark at 500 feet from the mouth. Here the good air gave way to gas and smoke. The helmetmen went forward and succeeded in reaching a point some 2,000 feet in, about half way to the place where it was believed the 76 trapped men were working. Here they learned the mine was afire, and they retreated to advise those in charge. The experts ordered all rescue men to the surface and the available forces were used in the fight against the fire.

A bright sunshine flooded the little ravine today where the black mine mouth leads back into the hills. State troopers had the situation in hand, keeping the hundreds of spectators who visited the scene from getting in the way of the rescue crews. Outside the roped area stood a gathering of men, women and children, relatives of the missing men. They had no word to say, standing mute and watching intently the activities about the mine mouth.

Most of the bodies recovered from the workings bore evidence of the great force of the explosion. They were burned and mangled. These victims, working within 500 feet of the entry, were caught in the sheet of flame sweeping to the surface. It was not known whether the explosion traveled back into the mine. Experts said that if the blast went in both directions it surely claimed the lives of all the men in the rear.

Two sections of the mine were known to be slightly gaseous, but as a whole the workings were reported safe. The miners used closed safety lamps and the tunnels and working rooms were thoroughly rock-dusted to pervent a spread of an explosion. The fact that the blast did spread caused officials to believe it was a gas and not a coal-dust explosion.

Only Two Dead Identified.

Only two of the dead had been identified tonight. They were Harold Davis and Virgil Straight. No attempt will be made to identify the other bodies until later.

During the afternoon, when the hundreds of sightseers threatened to overrun the mine property and hamper the work of the firefighters, a company of national guardsmen was called out. The

Coeds on Auto Rides Require Chaperons

Chicago, May 1 (By A. P.).—Strict rules for the conduct of the 2,000 women students at Northwestern university were promulgated today by the Women's Self-Government association.

Some of the rules follow:

Riding in automobiles at night is discouraged and when a student rides in an automobile a chaperon is required.

Women may not go to the city without an escort or chaperon.

Callers on visiting nights may not remain after 10 o'clock. Seniors may not stay out after 10:30, others after 10, and freshmen may go out only on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. No girl may go out without permission and each must tell where she is going.

No recommendation is made regarding rules against smoking.

"We do not consider such a rule necessary," said Ruth Arnold, vice president of the association.

MIDGET BANDIT, IN JAIL, PLOTS TO KIDNAP GIRL

Heiress to Shedd $15,000,000 to Be Held for $1,000,000, Say Chicago Police.

RIFLEMEN GUARD CHILD

Chicago, May 1 (By A. P.).—Henry "Midget" Fernekes, notorious gunman, recently removed from the Cook county jail where he awaited a sentence of death, to Joliet penitentiary, engineered an unsuccessful plot to kidnap an 11-year-old girl heiress to a $15,000,000 estate and hold her for a cash ransom of $1,000,000, authorities revealed tonight.

The intended victim was Jean Schweppe, daughter of Charles H. Schweppe, wealthy bond broker, and granddaughter of John G. Shedd, late president of Marshall Field & Co. The girl and a younger brother are heirs to part of the $15,000,000 Shedd estate.

"Midget," wanted in New York on murder charges and in other States for bank robberies, was convicted of murder and held in jail here for months awaiting execution. Recently he received a new trial from the State supreme court and was removed to Joliet penitentiary, pending trial, to serve part of a ten-year sentence for robbery.

The Schweppe home in the exclusive North Shore suburb of Lake Forest has been under the vigilant guard of two dozen detectives for a week. Tonight eight men armed with shotguns and rifles patrolled the estate and mansion and even maintained a vigilant watch on the waterfront, fearing an attempt might be made to kidnap the child by approach from Lake Michigan. The plot to kidnap the little heiress was believed to have been hatched in the Cook county jail while Fernekes was an inmate.

Fernekes, unable to assume active command of the kidnaping, used as his right-hand man a Chicago gunman, once confined in murderers' row with him, authorities said. He entrusted to this man the details of the amazing conspiracy.

A Chicago detective accidentally uncovered the kidnaping plot.

4 Killed, 2 Injured At Grade Crossing

Fostoria, Ohio, May 1 (By A. P.).—Four persons were killed and two injured here today when a New York Central freight train demolished an automobile at a grade crossing. A. D. Mitchell, 60; his wife, Mrs A. D. Mitchell, 58; Mrs. Pauline Mitchell, 30, and her 8-month-old daughter were killed.

The engineer, C. F. Hotten, was severely burned when the gas tank exploded. Paul Mitchell, driver of the car, received minor injuries.

ARTIST DIES TRYING TO SAVE PORTRAITS

Uncle of Gloria Swanson Is Found Dead After Fire Destroys Studio.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 1.—Trying to save his own images of his better known niece, Charles W. Svensson, uncle of Gloria Swanson, who found satisfaction rather than gold in his art, was burned to death in his studio workshop early today. Dramatic rescues, narrow escapes from death and the furious intensity of the flames featured the fire in which Svensson, 42 years old, and a respected painter, perished in an old-fashioned fire-trap type of studio building.

Seven others were injured, although it took flames only 30 minutes to devour the inner structure of the building.

The policemen, fighting through debris despite injuries, found Svensson's charred body with arms outstretched—pointing to the portraits of Gloria he tried to reach.

When here, Gloria Swanson, whose name was Svensson before she went into the movies, often visited her idealistic painter uncle.

Miss Swanson, in Hollywood, with her husband, was informed of her uncle's death tonight.

$227,220,577 GAIN SHOWN IN INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS

Increase Noted in First Nine Months of 1927 Fiscal Year.

MISCELLANEOUS LEVY FALLS $212,032,893

Net Increase in Returns Totals $15,187,684, Despite Higher Predictions.

Income taxes collected during the first nine months of the fiscal year 1927 showed an increase of $227,220,577.95 over the corresponding period of the previous year, while miscellaneous tax collections fell off to the extent of $212,032,893.64. The net increase in all tax collections amounted to only $15,187,684.31, or considerably less than was anticipated in advance of the March income tax payments. Figures for the nine months ended March 31, as announced yesterday by the internal revenue bureau, show total tax receipts of $2,128,057,864.75, as compared with $2,112,870,180.44 in the same nine months of the fiscal year 1926.

Of the total taxes collected in the first nine months of the present fiscal year $1,647,256,895.32 consisted of income taxes and $480,800,969.43 miscellaneous taxes. A year ago the totals were $1,420,036,317.37 and $692,833,863.07, respectively.

Income taxes collected during the nine-month period of the present year included $973,243,068.28 from the tax on corporation earnings and $674,013,827.04 from individual income taxes. The corporation tax receipts showed an increase of $183,058,851.61, a considerable part of which was accounted for by the increase of 12½ to 13½ per cent in the tax rate. Individual income tax receipts increased by $44,161,826.34 from last year's total of $629,852,100.70, despite a marked reduction in tax rates. Increased prosperity, according to internal revenue bureau officials, more than offset the tax reductions of the 1926 law.

New York Incomes Lead.

On the basis of the revenues of the nine-month period, corporation and individual income taxes for the entire fiscal year 1927 should amount to close to $2,200,000,000, which would be an increase of about $225,000,000 over the $195,000,000 total of the fiscal year 1926.

New York State led in total income and miscellaneous taxes collected during the nine months of the fiscal year 1927 with $550,162,022.09. Its total in "Coolidgeize your speech as you Fletcherize your food and Pasteurize your milk," said Dr. Drury. "It is the best thing for your health."

He recommended not only silence but deafness and blindness as Christian virtues.

BURGLARS LOOT SAFE AT STERLING STORE

$350 Missing From Company Depository Cracked by Robbers.

Safe-crackers invaded the Sterling Shoe Co. store at 1337 F street northwest, early yesterday, and, after carrying a 300-pound safe into the basement of the place, broke it open and looted it of more than $350 in cash. A sledge hammer and a chisel were recovered by Detective Dick Mansfield, of the central bureau, who investigated the robbery.

J. A. Tehas, manager of the store, discovered the robbery. The thieves are believed to have carried the safe from the street floor to the basement and there broke it open.

A wooden box, covered by a large sheet of paper, was found in the front of the store.

PRISON STORMED BY MOB INTENT ON LYNCHING BOY

Little Rock Penitentiary Is Searched After Negro, 16, Admits Killing Girl.

OTHER JAILS SEARCHED

Little Rock, Ark., May 1 (By A. P.).—Storming the gates of the State penitentiary and failing to find their quarry a mob of more than 1,000 tonight was traveling from jail to jail in nearby counties in search of Lonnie Dixon, 16-year-old negro, who late today confessed that he assaulted and murdered 12-year-old Floella McDonald, in the belfry of the First Presbyterian church here.

The mob, which dwindled from approximately 5,000 persons to 1,000 or more when it left the city, first went through the Saline county jail at Benton and from there left for Malvernon, according to reports. Hot Springs also was to be visited unless the negro youth is found before that city is reached, it was said.

Because of the intense feeling aroused by the crime, the negro was spirited out of the city to an unannounced destination tonight.

The finding of a book the girl had procured at a library and the girl's clothing where the boy had told police they were buried, gave corroboration to his story, police said.

Since the discovery of the body police had centered their efforts to fasten the crime upon the negro janitor of the First Presbyterian church or his son. The girl's body was found in the belfry of the church yesterday.

Father and 3 Children, Tied Together, Drown

Batesville, Ind., May 1 (By A. P.).—Tied together by a rope, the bodies of Fred Hackman, 47, and his three children, Elenora, 7; Harold, 5, and Bernice, 3, were found in Little Laughery creek here today.

Hackman is believed to have drowned the children and himself because of grief over the death of his oldest daughter, Alma, 20, who died Friday night.

BATTLESHIP HAULED FROM DIAMOND REEF

Colorado's Ammunition and Other Stores Removed Before She Floats.

New York, May 1 (By A. P.).—The battleship Colorado, stuck on Diamond reef just off the battery since Saturday morning, was floated at 8:25 o'clock tonight.

Three navy tugs, aided by a dozen or more commercial tugs, pulled the ship from the reef that had held her since Saturday morning.

The huge fighting ship floated clear of the reef an hour before high tide, after oil, ammunition and other stores had been taken off.

When both earlier efforts to float her failed, navy men discussed dismantling the ship's great 16-inch guns, but sufficient weight was removed in the form of fuel and shells.

After the Colorado had been pulled free of the reefe she was towed into the North river, where she dropped anchor. Early Monday the shi will be taken to the Brooklyn navy yard, where she will go into drydock for inspection to determine what injury was done to her plates while hung on the reef.

LONDON'S MAY DAY MARKED BY VERBAL WAR UPON CABINET

Trades Union Bill and China Prove Issues at Big Meetings.

APPEALS FOR SACCO MADE ON BANNERS

Celebration Passes Quietly in Most European Cities; Berlin Sees Clashes.

London, May 1 (By A. P.).—The Chinese situation and the conservative government's trade union bill, aimed at preventing strikes, gave the British May day demonstrations two very live issues. From 2,000 platforms throughout Great Britain today, labor, socialist and communist speakers denounced the effort of the government to "shackle" labor, and parades in many cities carried banners demanding "hands off labor," and "hands off China."

Scores of demonstrations were held in the London area, but the chief parade was along the Embankment, through Trafalgar square, Piccadilly and Oxford street to Hyde park, which was crowded with spectators wearing red carnations.

The procession was made up of thousands of paraders and scores of floats, carryalls and motor trucks, carrying Sunday school children and women and children of various other organizations, dressed chiefly in red. There was a great variety of banners, denouncing capitalism and the Baldwin government.

"Save Sacco and Vanzetti From the Electric Chair" appeared on several of the banners. "Help China to Smash Baldwin," "All Power to Our Friends the Chinese Laborers," were other slogans prominently displayed.

Fascisti Also Meet.

The brilliant red colors were even brighter in the sunshine of a perfect day, which attracted half of central London's population to Hyde park and along the line of march.

British fascisti also held many meetings, one of them at the foot of the Nelson monument in Trafalgar square, where the speakers denounced communism and urged English men and women to join the black shirts and "strangle the reds as the Chinese are doing."

Several meetings were held by the fascisti and anticommunist organizations in Hyde park during the labor

CANTON EXECUTIVE KILLS MORE RADICALS

Strikes Promptly Suppressed; American Ship Fired Upon at Shanghai.

Canton, China, May 1 (By A. P.).—Execution of radical agitators continues here. All endeavors of the radicals to effect further strikes here have been suppressed by prompt action of the government.

The police themselves have orders to distribute propaganda, and accordingly members of the force are delivering antiradical speeches on the streets of the city.

Shanghai, May 1 (By A. P.).—The American steamer President Lincoln was fired on from the native city of Shanghai today. A dozen rifle shots rattled about the steamer, but there were no casualties.

The steamer, a passenger and freight liner plying between Seattle and Japanese and Chinese ports, was steaming from the harbor, bound for the sea, when the firing occurred.

Izaak Walton Home Destroyed by Blaze

London, May 1 (By A. P.).—The cottage at Shallow Ford, near Stafford, the home 250 years ago of Izaak Walton, British writer whose fame has come down over the years as the author of "The Compleat Angler" was destroyed by fire today. A flying spark settling on the thatched roof of the old structure started the fire. All objects of historic interest were removed safely.

The cottage had been restored and converted into a museum three years ago, largely through the aid of American subscriptions.

Man, 104, Dies, Leaving 114 Living Descendents

Having outlived by more than three decades the allotted life span of threescore years and ten, Gilbert Krupsaw died yesterday at his home, 1346 Quincy street northwest, 104 years old.

Born in northern Russia in October, 1823, the centenarian came to this country 20 years ago and took up his residence in Washington. Long life was no novelty in his family. His father before him attained the age of 103 and his grandfather died at 108.

Survived by four sons and daughter, Mr. Krupsaw leaves 65 grandchildren and 44 great-grandchildren. His oldest grandchild, a resident of Washington is 52 years old, and his oldest great-grandchild 26. He was well and unusually active until the time of his death.

Sons surviving him are Harry I Krupsaw, of East Riverdale, Md.; Abram Krupsaw, of Baltimore, and Nathan and Kolman Krupsaw, of 1346 Quincy street northwest. His daughter, Mrs. Sarah Wolfman, lives at 1140 Sixth street northwest.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at his home.

FIVE MORE LEVEES BREAK; HUNDREDS NOW IN DANGER AFTER IGNORING WARNINGS

Many in Precarious State Refuse Assistance Offers

Refugees Have Food Cached on Imperiled Levees or Are on Housetops, but Still Decline All Aid; Buildings Are Carried Away.

Memphis, Tenn., May 1 (By A. P.).—The bright blue sky of May day reared its arch over scenes of desolation through wide stretches of the Mississippi valley today, but lacking a propitious omen to more than 200,000 inhabitants of the fertile garden lands of the great delta region.

Exiled from their homes and fields which have been inundated by the unprecedented floods pouring from a dozen gaps in the protective levees, these thousands had no share in the customary joyous celebration of the day.

The old custom of the May pole dance was lost in scenes of swirling waters, or vast concentration camps that housed the homeless people, while through two great inland seas in Mississippi and in Arkansas and northern Louisiana thousands fled the advancing wave or boats rescued them from their dangerous perches.

With the dikes crumbling before the onslaught of the Mississippi river in several places in Louisiana, the Arkansas river widened its breaches on the South Bend on Pendleton gaps and the Yazoo river pushed back ramparts on the eastern shore of the great delta lake in Mississippi.

Refusal of many inhabitants to quit their menaced dwellings made the work of relief forces hard. Particularly was this true in southeastern Arkansas where many persons, their food supplies cached on dangerous levees, or housetops, decline to receive assistance, although they were in great danger.

The slowly rising waters increased their depth today in the streets of McGehee, Dumas, Tillar and Gould,

BITTER FIGHT ON TODAY OVER BRITISH UNION ACT

Drastic Terms of Antistrike Measure Alarm Many of Cabinet's Friends.

RESULT OF LABOR TIE-UP

London, May 1 (By A. P.).—On the anniversary of last year's general strike and with the echoes of the great May day demonstrations of labor sounding in its ears, the house of commons tomorrow will begin the debate on the most important bill submitted to parliament since the war. By this bill the government contemplates making a general strike forever impossible, and at the same time hopes to out the teeth of the trade-union powers.

The bill had its genesis on the wave of indignation which swept the country a year ago and broke the general strike. Doubtless the government counted on the surge of that wave to carry the present bill, but apparently in making the bill so drastic as it has at the behest of party extremists, the ministers failed to take into consideration the stir it would raise in the whole labor world, and the parliamentary contest over the measure promises to be such as has not convulsed the political atmosphere of Great Britain for a decade.

But if the storm was unforseen when the bill was drafted, the ministers now fully realize the strength of the forces opposing it, and already before the debate has begun they have found it advisable to yield the first battle to their opponents by making the bill applicable to employers enforcing lockouts, as well as against workers resorting to the strike weapon.

There are not wanting candid friends in the conservative press to warn the government that it has made the mistake of making the provisions of the bill too drastic, thereby forcing a bitter class war and welding the hitherto somewhat divided opposition into a consolidated body, with every difference sunk in a single-minded de-

Ship Is Breaking Up In Surf; Crew Saved

Seattle, Wash., May 1 (By A. P.).—The disabled freighter Avlon went aground in a storm early today on the south shore of Willapa Harbor on the Washington coast, and late today was reported breaking up in the heavy surf and wind.

The crew of 10 on the steamer, which was crippled Friday night when it struck a bar, was safely removed to the tug John Cudahy before the freighter went aground.

EXILED BY BANDITS, DEFIES ORDER; SLAIN

Man, Robbed of $5,000, Had Recognized One of Gang, Police Believe.

St. Louis, May 1 (By A. P.).Refusal to leave the city after warning by bandits who robbed him eleven days ago, cost the life today of Clifford M. Hicks, 29, local attorney and law partner of former Gov. Elliot W. Major. Hicks' bullet-riddled body was found in a clump of bushes outside of the city at noon today.

Police said they were proceeding on the theory that Hicks was kidnaped by the bandits, who held him up April 20 and robbed him of $5,000. It is believed he was shot because he recognized the men who robbed him. Glenn Hicks, a brother, said he understood the attorney had received several letters warning him to leave the city immediately.

FIREMEN SAVE TEACHER CLINGING TO HOTEL LEDGE

200 Below Urge Man On When He Threatens to Jump Three Floors.

SERGEANT BATTLES HIM

Serenely perched on a ledge on the third floor of the Willard hotel on the Fourteenth street side, early this morning, a man who gave his name as M. B. Walker, 35 years old, and who told police he was a school teacher from Chester, S. C., calmly waved to a crowd of more than 200 persons, beseeching them to "spread apart, I'm going to jump." The crowd "egged" Walker on for fifteen minutes when the fire department rescue squad arrived and he was rescued. Placed under arrest at the First precinct, he was sent to Gallinger hospital for mental observation.

The voice, crying for aid, was mysterious at the outset. Persons passing along the street and hotel employes heard the cry, but could not locate whence it came. Finally two taxicab drivers spied the man. He was at-

51-Mile Walking Race To Same Man 3 Times

London, May 1 (By A. P.).—For the third consecutive year, S. Ayles yesterday won the stock exchange's famous annual London-to-Brighton walking race. He did the distance of 51 miles 7 furlongs and 67 yards in 8 hours 44 minutes and 14 seconds, or about 7 minutes faster than last year. His time, however, was 33 minutes above the record made in 1919 by H. V. Ross. Sixty-five competed.

The field started from the clock tower at Westminster at 6:30 this morning, the weather being sunny and cold. Ayles led Grim Wade, his nearest opponent, at Croydon, by 48 seconds and steadily increased his lead. G. Hall finished in 9 hours 4 minutes and 51 seconds, and V. George Taylor was third, in 9 hours, 8 minutes and 9 seconds.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO MRS. W. B. FRENCH

Nice Court Acts on Plea of American Wife; Husband Held Incompetent.

Nice, France, May 1 (By A. P.).—The local court has granted a divorce to Mrs. William Barton French, of New York.

Mrs. French was the second wife of William Barton French, son of the late Seth Barton French, one time partner of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. She was Miss Hazel Allen, of Portland, Maine, when she was married to French in June, 1924.

William Barton French, about 32, and socially prominent, achieved considerable notoriety in November, 1926, when he was arrested on arrival in New York of a French liner on charge that he had cashed a worthless check for $3,500 at the office of Thomas Cook & Son, at Nice.

Relatives immediately brought proceedings to have him declared an incompetent because of the drink habit he had formed, and a sheriff's jury quickly declared the allegation was true, recommending that a committee be appointed for his property. It was shown French had an income of nearly $12,000 a year from trust funds and that he had a contingent interest in the residuary estate of his father.

The charge of passing a bad check was dropped.

Lower Concordia Parish Is Being Swept Again by Racing Water.

TOWNS ARE IN PATH; WARNINGS IGNORED

Further Dynamiting Is Done in Hopes of Lowering the Level at New Orleans.

New Orleans, May 1 (By A. P.).—Louisiana today began feeling the full force of the floods which have devastated more than 10,000 square miles of territory and a score of towns in Arkansas, Mississippi and other valley States to the north.

Breaking through the protecting levees at four places south of Vidalia, the rushing Mississippi torrent was completing the inundation of Concordia parish with prospects that it would overflow most of Catahoula, northern Avoyelles and the low parts of La Salle and eastern Rapides parishes.

The threatened territory comprises about 3,100 square miles with a population of 70,000 people and a property value of more than $30,000,000.

While the main river flood water was claiming this new area, the overflow from the Arkansas river was spreading over southeastern Arkansas and the flow from the Stops Landing break above Greenville was widening over the Mississippi delta, adding hourly to the number of homeless and swelling the gigantic property loss.

Hundreds of Lives Endangered.

The flood from the new breaks south of Vidalia endangered the lives of hundreds who had clung to their homes in spite of the backwaters from the Black river, which had spread over that territory.

The four crevasses created by the river near the Glasscock levee came unexpectedly and at a time when the engineers had about won their fight to dam the waters flowing over the slough in the dyke at that place.

Making initial openings measuring from 150 to 200 yards wide, the raging waters rushed to the lowlands, adding to the backwater flood there and gradually pushing out the lake toward Vidalia and Ferriday, where barriers are being hastily constructed in an effort to protect those towns

Former Gov. John M. Parker, in charge of all relief operations in the State, announced that the Red Cross had established a base at Marksville, 30 miles southwest of the new breaks. Supplies will be concentrated there and refugees will be cared for before being moved to the main concentration camps at Baton Rouge and Natchez. Announcement also was made that the Louisiana national guard, which is now fully mobilized, had approximately 1,000 men in that region and that small boats were being rushed to the threatened area to rescue those who might be marooned.

Flood to Be Intensified.

These new breaks in the banks of the Mississippi were expected to lower the river stage at Natchez, but the weather bureau in a special warning stated that the water flowing through those crevasses would return to the main stream, joining the flood from the Ouachita and Red rivers, "and intensify the flood situation in the Atchafalaya and the Mississippi rivers below the mouth of the Red river."

Reiterating its warning of record flood stages south of Natchez, the weather bureau declared that with "such conditions in sight, all interests in the lowlands should take every precaution."

A similar warning was given by the Red river, Atchafalaya and Bayou Boeuf levee board, which stated that a break in the Big Bend levee on the Bayou des Glaises was imminent, and that all live stock, women and children should be removed immediately. Should this break occur, the board said, it would affect at least four towns, Sarto, Rexmere, Bordelonville and Moreauville and perhaps Cottonport, Hamburg, Choupique, Simmesport, Odenburg, Melville and Krotz Springs.

While a large army of men continued the work of strengthening the levees between Baton Rouge and New Orleans, State engineers continued the blasting of the dyke south of this city in an effort to relieve the threatening situation here.

Reduce Level at New Orleans.

The opening started Friday had been widened to a total distance of 600 feet tonight, and the engineers estimated that early in the week the flow would be 250,000 cubic feet a second, materially reducing the river level at New Orleans and below.

A drop of a tenth of a foot in the flood stage here was reported yesterday but since then the river level has been stationary. Col. Marcel Garsaud, general manager of the New Orleans dock board, calculated that when the flood has reached its peak the stage along the Crescent bend will not exceed 21.7 feet as against the 23.7 feet stage forecast before the Caernavron break was made.

Besides the four new breaks reported south of Vidalia, advices received in Natchez were that the Mississippi

COMMUNIST LEADER PREDICTS DOWNFALL OF U. S. CAPITALISM

District Workers' Party Told May Day Should Be Celebrated With Parades.

DEPLORES FEDERATION'S REFUSAL TO OBSERVE

Labor Officials Say "Reds" Are Regarded With Distrust by Unions. by Unions.

Urging support of a communist party around which the unskilled workers of America could gather, Albert Weisbord in a May day address before the Workers' party of Washington last night, declared that within a very few years "May day" would be observed with large street celebrations, as was the American Labor day.

Weisbord, one of the leaders of the Passaic strike several months ago, deplored the fact that members of the American Federation of Labor refused to celebrate May day, and that unskilled workers are forced to celebrate inside halls.

He predicted that within a few years the skilled and unskilled workers of America would go on a strike which "will cause the downfall of capitalism." Approximately 75 persons attended the celebration which was held in the Typographical temple.

Disregard of "May day" as a holiday for celebrating the achievements of American labor by trades unions of the United States was explained by officials of the American Federation of Labor who declared that for a number of years the celebrants of "May day" have been regarded with distrust by members of the unions.

A labor meeting was held yesterday at the home of George C. Lewis at Cherrydale, Va., under the auspices of the Secular league. F. J. Catlin and Linn A. E. Gale were the speakers.

Moscow City of Rejoicing And Red Flags on May Day

Moscow, Russia, May 1 (By A. P.).—All roads led today to Red square, the central point of a huge May day demonstration. Troops of all branches, innumerable unions representing every department of civilian activity, bands of Boy and Girl Scouts and school children participated. Train service and vehicular traffic were at a standstill, and the city was given over to celebration.

Red square, where grandstands were erected fronting on Lenin's mausoleum, was packed by 9 o'clock in the morning with troops. The Kremlin wall and adjacent towers were hung with red banners, while within the building orators told of the progress of the revolution and the troops repeated the lengthy oath of fealty.

The troops later passed in review before the assembled commissars and high officials, the cavalry well mounted and a fine show of artillery. Sixteen planes maneuvered overhead. Then came thousands of marchers and motor trucks packed with singing and shouting children, floats depicting revolutionary episodes and other features.

Some of the marchers carried large mechanical contrivances caricaturing Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, and banners attesting friendship for China.

A small group of workers, not connected with the labor federation, gathered before the American consulate, which was closed, and in speeches protested against the sentences of death inflicted upon Sacco and Vanzetti.

SELF-SUFFICIENCY WORLD WAR ASSET, HARBORD DECLARES

War General Addresses Delegates to Third Pan-American Commercial Conference.

Coolidge to Speak at Joint Assembly in Auditorium Held Tonight.

Commercial Congress Program

Today's program of the third Pan-American commercial conference follows.

Opening session at 10 a. m. in the Pan-American Union.

Election of permanent chairman and vice chairmen.

Appointment of committees.

Address of welcome by Secretary of State Kellogg.

Address of welcome by Enrique Olaya, Minister of Colombia.

Address by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Luncheon at 1 p. m. at the Pan-American Union.

Session at 2:30 p. m. in the Pan-American Union.

Topic: Consular procedure and customs regulations.

Greeting at Bolling field at 5 p. m. to the Pan-American aviators.

Dinner at 7:30 p. m. in the Mayflower hotel, tendered by the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce.

One of the few assets of the world war was the self-sufficiency gained by the New World, Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, told delegates to the third Pan-American commercial conference at a luncheon given in their honor at the Willard hotel yesterday afternoon by the radio corporation.

The delegates registered yesterday morning at the Pan-American building for the conference, which opens for a four-day session this morning at that building with 21 American republics represented. The luncheon began at 1 o'clock.

Brought Intimate Contact.

"It is the self-dependency of the western world that has brought its southern and northern continents into more practical and intimate contact. Thrown upon their own resources during the trying days of the great war, a direct exchange of our manufactured products and raw materials was only natural.

He then spoke of the great advance made in radio communication and predicted that the ties between the countries would be strengthened by the close relationship engendered by closer communication facilities. He declared the United States has become the center of a world-wide system of radio communication.

Tells of Radio Future.

"Latin America in the early future may have important business documents, legal papers, facsimile messages, photographs, drawings and other papers received by photoradiogram, saving the weeks now required by mail transmission," Gen. Harbord declared.

The general then gave the following five items which should make up a radio program in the countries of all-America:

"A broad degree of cooperation and assistance in the general development of the art and industry.

"The direct participation of government departments in broadcasting educational programs, weather and market reports, farm bulletins and government activities, as distinguished from the purely entertainment side of radio.

"The promotion of equitable radio laws, with adequate means for supervision. Such laws should encourage the greatest possible radio development with only such limitations as are constructive and not destructive.

"In general, the development of radio broadcasting and radio communications as an essential factor in the creation of closer ties and better understanding between all countries of the Pan-American Union as well as in the internal growth and development of each nation.

"A full study of the meaning of radio in its various phases, with faith in its possibilities and a helping hand to those engaged in its operation and development."

Greets Delegates in Spanish.

The general greeted the delegates in Spanish before he began his speech, which was given in English and later translated into Spanish by C. B. Marshall, of the radio corporation. A response to the general's greetings was made by Jose Walter, of the chamber of commerce of Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Following the luncheon, the delegates went sightseeing. The Capitol was opened for their inspection as a special courtesy.

The conference sessions will open officially this morning at 10 o'clock, with Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, chairman of the governing board of the union, presiding, at the Pan-American building. Secretary Kellogg and Enrique Olaya, Minister of Colombia, who is vice chairman of the governing board, will give addresses of welcome.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will give the principal address at the morning session. The delegates will attend luncheon at 1 o'clock and at 2:30 o'clock again will convene for a discussion on "Consular Procedure and Customs Regulations."

Will See Fliers Return.

The delegation will attend the official greeting of the Pan-American fliers at Bolling field at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and will attend a dinner to be given in their honor at 7:30 o'clock at the Mayflower hotel by the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce.

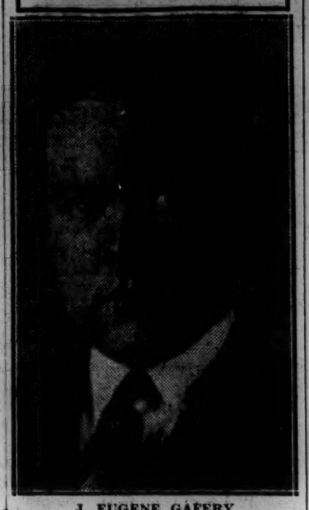

President Coolidge will address a joint session of the conference and the United States Chamber of Commerce at the Washington auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. A reception in honor of the delegates will be held at the Chamber of Commerce building, 1615 H street northwest, at 10 o'clock, following the reception.

Patrolman R. L. Hinton, of the Second precinct, yesterday shot and probably fatally wounded a negro in a gun battle at Seventh and O streets northwest, while Patrolman Karl Spiess, of the Fourth precinct, was injured in an attempt to arrest two colored women at Sixth and H streets southwest.

Hinton came upon two men, who were engaged in an altercation at Seventh and O streets. One man was walking with his back to Hinton. The man was commanded to halt, but paid no heed to Hinton's order and fired. The man, according to police, threw a pistol over the fence of the Columbia Junior High school and fled, but was caught by Hinton. He gave his name as Eugene Brent, colored, 1106 Sixth street northwest. He was taken to Gallinger hospital. The gun used by Brent was recovered, police say, by Hinton.

YOUTH, 23, SHOOTS SELF OVER AUNT, 35, HE LOVED

Clardy Comes From Wyoming to End Life at Home of Aurora Hills Woman.

LEAVES NOTE, RING, $10

Cecil W. Clardy, 23 years old, of Cheyenne, Wyo., shot himself dead on the porch of the home of Miss Myrtle Becker, 103 Warren avenue, Aurora Hills, Va., after he had been refused entrance to the home yesterday morning.

Clardy, according to county officers, rang the door bell twice. Receiving no response, it was said, he pulled out an automatic 32-caliber pistol and shot himself through the right temple.

Afterward a note was found which had been pushed under the front door. It was addressed to Mrs. Olive Cain, 35 years old, also of Cheyenne, Wyo., who, officers explained, was his aunt by marriage.

The note contained a $10 gold piece and a heavy, man's ring set with a large, dark stone. It assured Mrs. Cain that Clardy, the writer, loved her as no one else ever could. It closed by expressing hope that she would live a "happy life."

The note also requested that Earl Lewis, of the Memorial hospital, Cheyenne, be advised of what had occurred. Further it requested his body be sent to his home in Placid, Tex., and that he be buried beside his mother there. His father, Samuel Clardy, according to officers, lives in Placid.

Accompanied by an attorney, L. R. Ludwig, of Lima, Ohio, according to officers, Clardy called at the home in Aurora Hills Friday and again Saturday.

Officers expressed the belief that he intended to kill Mrs. Cain and then to kill himself. They pointed out that the automatic revolver was loaded to capacity. The note he left, however, gave no evidence of such an intention.

The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of C. J. Ives, in Clarendon, where Coroner H. B. Swain pronounced death due to suicide.

Miss Becker, officers said, saw Clardy walk upon the porch and ring the bell. She saw him walk away, it was said, and immediately afterward heard one shot. Mrs. Cane was in the house at the time.

Clardy, according to officers, came to Washington Friday and registered here at the Driscoll hotel.

Mrs. Cain according to officers, came to Washington about three months ago and obtained employment as a stenographer. She, with her daughter Hazel, went to live with Miss Becker, who, it was said, was an old "school chum."

Three letters from Mrs. Cain were found in Clardy's pockets. They were well written in a clear, legible hand, and were signed "Aunt Olive." One of the letters closed with "Sincerely" and another with "Love." Each of the letters expressed concern over Clardy's prospects, and by the references they contained indicated that Mrs. Cane was acquainted with a number of people in this section.

Clardy, according to officers, worked on his uncle's ranch near Cheyenne. The note which was scrawled in an almost illegible hand, asserted that Miss Becker was the cause of a change in Mrs. Cain's attitude toward him.

Shipping Rate War Expected on Coast

San Francisco, May 1 (By A. P.).—The Chronicle says an open rate war between shipping lines engaged in carrying canned goods and dried fruits from Pacific coast to European ports was forecast here today.

The action of the Pacific coast-European conference, taken on March 15, and guaranteeing shippers a 90-day protection period on rate changes, has been rescinded as the first step. Refusal of the Donaldson line and the Harrison direct line to increase their rates on canned goods and dried fruits, as agreed to by all other lines, it was said, precipitated the conference action.

YOUTH, LUNGS PUMPED, ALIVE AFTER TEN DAYS

Doctors Believe Lad Is Much Weaker, but Artificial Breath Goes On.

Roanoke, Va., May 1 (By A. P.).—Walter L. Boothe, 18-year-old Troutville youth, was still alive tonight at a local hospital after 10 days of life through the medium of artificial respiration. The youth, in the face of enormous adversity passed a fairly comfortable day. Stimulants were administered him on several occasions, however, and his strength appeared to be gradually waning, it was announced. He was conscious throughout the day.

The condition of the paralysis that has deadened his legs, arms, and lungs remained unchanged and physicians in attendance said there was nothing to indicate that he might obtain a new lease on life.

Up and down, up and down, the arms of the stricken boy move under the propulsion of friends, who are well aware that a cessation of this movement on their part will break the slender thread of life. Boothe gives no inkling that he shares the discouragement of the watchers.

Council Review Players Selected From Seven Parishes of Capital.

BIG AUDIENCE ATTENDS

Selected from the seven colored Catholic parishes of the District of Columbia, the Council Review Players presented before a large audience yesterday at the Belasco theater Amelio Palmeri's play of the divine passion, "On the Slopes of Calvary." The play was staged under the professional direction of Barrington Guy and under management of Francis Spriggs.

Peter, the disciple, was presented by Charles Quander. Judas, the traitor, was portrayed by Charles Plummer. Rachel was played by Lillian Clarke, who carried a sustained role admirably. She was the principal narrator of the deeds of the divine tragedy.

Susie Franklin was Esther, the sister of Judas, and Mary, the mother of Jesus, was presented by Georgia Simmons.

Included in the cast were George Wallace, as Azar; Alonzo Burke, as Calaphas; John Millard, as Pilate; Francina Biddle, as Lydia, wife of Pilate; Eloyce Hackett, as Veronica; Alice Barry, as St. John; Eulalia Luckette, as Martha; Josephine Riggs, as Mary Magdalane; Hilda Harris, Thelma Hopkins, Agnes Hall, William Ford, Ernest Brown, Anthony Simmons, Clarence Spriggs, Benjamin Brown, Richard Tillman, Frank Wood, Lewis Smith, Alice McGhee, Annabelle Cook, Mary Fenwick, Corrine Clark, Theresa Bond, Agnes Hall, Alma Russell, Loretta Stewart, Evelyn Butler and Bernice Harris.

MRS. SNYDER AGAIN TO TESTIFY TODAY; GRAY THEN ON STAND

Widow Will Face Her Own Lawyer and Attack of Prosecution.

SALESMAN WEAKENS UNDER TRIAL ORDEAL

He Will Tell of Being Lured to the Scene by Woman.

New York, May 1 (By A. P.).—This week will see both the defendants of the Snyder murder trial on the witness stand, each one pointing at the other and saying:

"I am innocent; there is the murderer of Albert Snyder."

Mrs. Ruth Snyder, blonde widow of the victim, took the stand Friday in an attempt to shift what the State asserts is her share of the blame for the killing of her husband from her own erect shoulders to the bowed back of her little corset salesman paramour, Henry Judd Gray.

When court adjourned for the week-end she had not completed her direct examination. She will be recalled as the first witness at the opening session of the trial's third week.

As soon as her own lawyer, Edgar F. Hazelton, has led her gently through her recital of what she alleges to be the true story of the crime, she will have to submit to the verbal attacks of the prosecution.

Full Denial Expected.

When Mrs. Snyder has been released at last from this ordeal and character witnesses have testified to her standing in the community, then her place in the witness chair will be taken by the corset salesman. He is expected to deny her story in every detail and retell it to paint her as a "serpent woman" in whose toils he was a helpless puppet.

The story of Mrs. Snyder in brief was that Gray, for love of whom she had violated her marriage laws, conceived the idea of killing her husband to obtain insurance of which she was the beneficiary, and that he carried the plan to completion single handed and over her strenuous objections.

She said she lied to detectives investigating the crime and told them her husband had been killed by burglars because she was in "mortal fear" of her lover, who had threatened to kill her if she did not protect him.

Feared for Her Life.

"I had seen him murder my husband," she cried in a harsh wail, "and I had every reason to believe that if I did not obey his commands he would finish me off, too."

How Gray may endure the ordeal of the witness stand is a matter of wide conjecture. Since the trial began he has sat slumped in his seat, chin on hand and eyes riveted on the floor so that only his curly black hair was visible to the spectators.

His story, if from some hidden source he can command the energy to tell it, will be that the murder plan was entirely Mrs. Snyder's; that he was "put in a whirl" by her tumultous love making and was forced against his will to be present when the crime was committed. He is expected to admit striking the first, and almost harmless blow, but to assert that after that the murder was done, coldly, brutally and deliberately, by Mrs. Snyder.

Search for 3 Killed In Plane Fruitless

Norfolk, Va., May 1 (By A. P.).—The waters of Chesapeake bay have failed to give up any more bodies of the four naval airmen who were killed off New Point by a bolt of lightning Friday while en route to Hampton Roads from Philadelphia. The body recovered early Friday night by a fisherman was identified as that of Machinist Mate George M. Michaels, of Norfolk.

The search by crews of the airplane tender Teal and several motorboats for the bodies of Lieut. George W. Lehman, Lieut. Victor F. Marinelli and Chief Machinist Mate Loren E. Poyner, the other victims, was handicapped by rough weather and the shallow water at the spot where the big two-engined plane crashed to fragments from a height of 1,200 feet after having been hit by the bolt of lightning.

Pensacola, Fla., May 1 (By A. P.).—The body of Lieut. Comdr. Noel Davis, killed near Langley field, Va., last Tuesday during a trial flight of his giant plane, the American Legion, in which he was to attempt a transatlantic flight was buried here today with full military honors.

Services were conducted at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Merritt, parents of Mrs. Davis. The local American Legion post had charge of the rites at the grave. Enlisted men at the naval air station here were pall bearers while an escort of honor was composed of naval officers.

Commander Davis and his aid, Lieut. Stanton Hall Wooster, were killed when their plane crashed with a load of 3,000 pounds.

Youth Mysteriously Shot to Death in Car

Bradley Beach, N. J., May 1 (By A. P.).—Police tonight admitted they were baffled by the mystery of the slaying of Arnold Bennett, 19 years old, of Belmar, who received a pistol bullet through the brain early today while he was riding on the lap of a girl in a crowded roadster on Main street.

Although convinced the shot was fired from the street, authorities continued to question the companions of Bennett, a youth and three girls. The party was returning from a dance.

Will Rogers Says the Bellanca Plane Is a Great Sample

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, N. Y., May 1.—Just flew in here from Beckley, W. Va., where Casey Jones, the famous Curtis aviator, landed me on the field after just two hours and twenty minutes from Washington, D. C. They had the big Bellanca plane out on the field and Chamberlin, the pilot who is to take it to Paris, took me up in it. It's a great sample. All we need is thousands of them.

It looks like a big night at our show tonight. McCormick and I are arguing over who will open the show. Mr. Coolidge is going to make another Red Cross appeal for more funds. Don't stop at your quota. This is the biggest need we ever had in this country.

Thank you,

WILL ROGERS.

BEST-LOOKING SOLDIER ENDS LIFE WITH KNIFE

Dr. Willis Linn, Long in Ill Health, Once Officer in Constabulary.

WED NURSE DURING TRIAL

Garrison, Ky., May 1 (By A. P.).—Dr. Willis Linn, 37, formerly of New York, died here today from a self-inflicted knife wound.

His wife, and a neighbor, Howard Behimer, were in the same room when Dr. Linn displayed the knife, but before they could interfere he had inflicted a wound in his throat.

A coroner's examination this afternoon resulted in a suicide verdict.

Dr. Linn came here six months ago from New York. His death was attributed by members of his family to continual ill health.

Rochester, N. Y., May 1 (By A. P.).—Dr. Willis Linn's death at Garrison, Ky., today, recalled several chapters in his career, first as commander of Troop A, New York State constabulary, an organization which he helped to form, and later as a practising physician in Binghamton.

Known at one time as the "best looking soldier in America," Dr. Linn became commander of Troop A at Batavia shortly after the constabulary was formed in 1917. Charges against his personal conduct resulted in his dismissal by Gov. Smith in 1919. Dr. Linn denied the charges.

Returning to the practice of medicine in Brockport and Avon, Dr. Linn, in 1924, faced charges by his former nurse, Miss Mildred Westbrook, of violation of the Mann act. She claimed that after a "faked" marriage she and Dr. Linn took a honeymoon tour of the South. During the trial in Washington, they suddenly eloped to Montrose, Pa., and were married.

After living in Binghamton for about a year, Dr. Linn was shot through the arm. He accused his wife of shooting him. A grand jury failed to indict the former Mildred Westbrook, who maintained that he shot himself with the intention of fixing the blame on her. Since then he had dropped from sight.

Memorial Services At Capitol May 15

For the second time in its history the Capitol of the United States will be the scene of memorial services for a woman Sunday, May 15, when representatives of women's legal, political, patriotic and professional organizations gather in the crypt of the building to do honor to Emma M. Gillett, Washington attorney.

The first use of the Capitol for a similar purpose was on the occasion of memorial services for Inez Milholland, suffrage leader, on Christmas day, 1916. Mrs. Harvey Wiley is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the services May 15.

Hinton, with the backing of a syndicate whose members have not been announced, is quoted as saying he will undertake the flight "as soon as a Bellanca monoplane can be delivered."

AUTOIST DRIVES 107 HOURS WITHOUT STOP

Unchained From Wheel, Man Gives Credit to Wife; Is in Hospital.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 1.—Like many another great conqueror, George Hughes, Elizabeth's own "iron man of the wheel" who drove an automobile 107 hours without a stop, gives all credit to the good little woman. Resting from his unofficial record-breaking motoring performance today, Hughes turned to his wife and said:

"If you hadn't been along most of the time I would have quit sooner."

Hughes is a patient now at Alexian Brothers hospital, Elizabeth, but he is not really ill. He's remaining in bed more as a precaution.

Hughes, a steeplejack, won $2,000 in bets with friends through driving his car from 10:04 a. m. last Tuesday until 9:04 last night. He was chained to the wheel throughout. Whenever he reached a "stop" signal, he reversed in order to keep moving.

During the 107 hours, Hughes covered 2,152 miles and used 108 gallons of gasoline. He was carried to the hospital after the run, although he wanted to walk.

troops pitched their tents nearby and cooperated with State police in maintaining order.

Newspaper men at the mine found communication almost impossible. One party-line telephone leads from Everettaville and this was being used by rescue workers to order supplies, as well as by the reporters. The mine is located 3 miles out from the railroad over a muddy road.

82 COAST GUARDS AND 20 BOATS PASS ON WAY TO FLOOD

Are En Route to Natchez for Relief Service on Swollen River.

MORE MEN AND CRAFT BEING RUSHED TO SCENE

Red Cross National Fund Reaches $4,776,825; Benefit Parties Planned.

Under orders of Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the United States coast guard, 82 men and 20 power boats, drafted from the coast guard stations in the Fifth and Sixth districts, passed through Washington en route to Natchez, Miss., for flood relief service.

A telegram was received Saturday from District Commander M. W. Rasmussen, coast guard liaison officer on the staff of Henry M. Baker, national director of the Red Cross, in charge of rescue work on the Mississippi, asking for additional men and boats. Approximately 400 officers and men of the coast guard throughout the United States and 60 power boats have been dispatched to the relief of the sufferers.

The funds subscribed to the relief work through the National Red Cross reached $4,776,825 yesterday, according to headquarters.

Card parties and balls will be given during the week for the benefit of sufferers. Saturday night the Mississippi State society will give a ball in the Willard hotel, for which President and Mrs. Coolidge have accepted an invitation to attend.

A benefit performance will be held at Loew's Palace Friday night at 11:30 o'clock. A new film will be shown, as ell as a big stage show. The Welcome club was hastily organized under the leadership of Mrs. A. D. Fairbairn to raise funds for the relief work. Thursday, May 12, it will give a card party in Hecht's auditorium. Mrs. Coolidge will be asked to donate a prize.

The Washington Post collected $73 yesterday, making a total of $2,310.20 it has collected. The following contributed: Amelia B. Applegate, $5; Mrs. W. H. H. Kleps, $10; Rose D. Lorell, $2; Lucille S. Sheppard, $25; Cash, $10; Florence W. Washer, $16, and D. O. Crowell, $5.

The St. Jerome's church at Hyattsville collected $100.25 yesterday at its service. This is one-fifth of the quota for Prince Georges county, which is $500.

400 Acres Reclaimed In Search for Jewels

Kings Lynn, England, May 1 (By A. P)—Search for King John's crown jewels, lost 700 years ago in the Cross Keys Wash, near Sutton bridge, when the monarch barely escaped with his life, has been profitable for this town and vicinity.

Nearly 400 acres have been reclaimed from the shallow North Sea bay under the Wash reclamation scheme, which had its inception hundreds of years ago as reports of King John's losses were handed down generation after generation. The reclaimed land is to be used for agricultural purposes and has been estimated to be worth $500 an acre.

BOY SHOOTS CHUM, THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Lad Believes Rusty Rifle Unloaded and Aims It at Playmate.

Columbus, Ohio, May 1 (By A. P.).—Gerald George, 11 years old, becoming frightened when he shot and wounded his chum today with a rusty, muzzle-loading rifle he thought unloaded, obtained his father's revolver, dressed himself in his best clothes and then shot himself to death.

Robert Summers, 14, was reading in George's room when George dragged from an obscure corner of the house the old rifle. It was not loaded, he assured his playmate, as he pointed it and pulled the trigger.

A bullet crashed through Robert's hand and tore its way out his forearm. Robert, frightened, ran to his home across the street.

Gerald then went into his father's room and obtained the revolver, changed into his best suit, went back into his father's room and shot himself in the head. He died in a hospital.

Robert's wound was not serious, physicians said.

FARMS IN EVERGLADES PREDICTED BY MAPPER

Tracts Could Be Cultivated, Flier Reports to War Department.

NOT BIG SWAMP, HE SAYS

(By the Associated Press.)

Evidence of existence in the Florida Everglades of tracts which could be cultivated is reported by Lieut. Guy Kirksey, army air corps, on duty at Langley field, Va., who has just completed a six weeks' aerial mapping project in cooperation with the coast and geodetic survey on both coasts of southern Florida.

"The popular conception of the Everglades as a vast, impenetrable swamp is wrong," Lieut. Kirksey reported to the War Department. "When facilities for ingress and egress have been provided, no doubt much of the country will be subject to cultivation, particularly where drainage is feasible."

The flights were made during dry weather, and the air officer said he saw numerous spots of high ground in the Everglades which he doubted ever had been seen by white men. The southern part of the Everglades, south of the town of that name, is devoid of human occupants, so far as the airplane observations could disclose.

Kirksey's photographic records comprise a map of the coast line from Jupiter inlet to Miami Beach; from 10 miles north of Cape Sable to Marco, and from Cape Romano to a point 15 miles north of Naples, and thence to the mouth of the Caloosahatchee river. The pictures were taken from altitudes of from 8,000 to 10,000 feet.

French Army's Cats Get Ration Increase

Paris, May 1 (By A. P.)—Army cats have had their wages raised. As food is their chief expense, there is going to be a lot of liver consumed.

Paul Prudent Painleve, minister of war, raised the official allowance of the cats from 4 to 10 centimes a day. Of course that means only from about 1 cent a week to 3 cents a week, but the cats are well satisfied.

There was some objection to this 150 per cent increase in these difficult times of economy because the cats' job is to run rats and mice out of army storehouses, and there were those who thought they ought to provide for themselves.

However, the cats' landlords, janitors of the warehouses, put in a good word, and the deed is done.

AUTO CARAVANS TOUR APPLE BLOSSOM AREA

Traffic Jams and Picnic Dinners Predominate; 10,000 Visit Winchester.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 1.—Bright weather and smooth highways radiating in all directions lured thousands to the northern Shenandoah valley today. Some of the Winchester district apple orchards still were in bloom, and hundreds toured along byroads for close-up views.

Recent warm rains and sunshine brought other trees, shrubbery and grazing fields to perfection, marking the impulse to get into the country well-nigh irresistible. Hotel registers here carried names from a third of the nation's States. Dining rooms of hotels, restaurant and tourist inns had lines of motorists with sharp appetites waiting throughout the day. Streets and principal roads were often blocked by traffic jams. It was estimated that 10,000 tourists passed part of the day here. Hundreds spread shoe-box dinners, picnic style, at free tourist camps just off the main highways.

Gasoline station observers said they counted nearly 2,000 District of Columbia cars headed here over the new short route of the Lee-Jackson highway. Motorists from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and many other States swarmed over the six north, south, east and west roads converging here. Seven large bus lines operated extra machines in sections, like railroad limiteds, between Winchester and nearby Eastern cities.

FASCISTS GUARD PLANE OF DE PINEDO ON BOAT

Italians, With Stilettos and Guns, Keep Vigil; One Attacks Photographer.

DESTINATION IS SECRET

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 1.—Six Italians, with six stilettos, kept a 24-hour vigil beside the airplane, Santa Maria II, all the way across the Atlantic, it was learned today when the airplane arrived in New York aboard the Duilio. The Santa Maria II will replace the destroyed plane of the Marchese Francesco De Pinedo, Italian aviator now in New York on his way around the world.

All carried revolvers, too, and three wore the black shirts of the fascisti. Six other members of the fascisti legion of Genoa, headed by Capt. Ettore Robbiano, also were on duty as representatives of Premier Mussolini.

Each fascist guard wore the brown leather belt, with an automatic pistol resting in a holster beneath his right arm, which is the recognized uniform of the fascist militia. Each eight hours the guard was changed.

Photographers tried to "snap" the plane on the Duilio's deck, but a black-shirted fascisti tore off his coat and reached for his stiletto. Finally three of the guards forced their violent colleague to go behind the plane while they posed for photographs.

No information as to the plane's destination could be obtained today, either on the ship or on the navy derrick float 197, which came alongside to move the Maria. It was reported the plane will be removed to Miller field, Staten island.

The wings will be assembled there, it was said, by Alessandro Orlando, engineer of the Isotta-Fraschini Motor Co., of Italy, who crossed on the Duilio with three assistants. The Santa Maria II is an exact duplicate of the first Santa Maria. Its motors are of 500-horsepower each. The Italian guards were not permitted to leave the ship.

LOS ANGELES POLICE STOP SACCO PARADE

Arrest Drivers of 28 Autos; No License, Is Charge by Authorities.

Los Angeles, May 1 (By A. P.).—Police today broke up an automobile parade flying banners protesting the death sentences on Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, convicted at Dedham, Mass., and arrested the drivers of 28 of the machines. The charge laid against the prisoners was parading without a license.

One banner seized by the officers proclaimed that the parade had been organized by the Sacco-Vanzetti conference, International Labor Day defense, Centralia defense conference, Industrial Workers of the World and the World Communist party.

Other banners invited the public to "come in masses to Plummers park to celebrate unitedly the international holiday of labor."

Following the arrests a squad of officers was rushed to the park to observe conditions there. Meanwhile police headquarters was beseiged by a mob of mothers, seeking their children from the 28 automobiles whose drivers had been taken into custody.

Mrs. Howell and Healey Both Silent, However, After the Visit.

New York, May 1 (By A. P.).—Thomas Healey, Princeton athlete, who was engaged to marry Miss Nancy Carr, 20-year-old member of Atlanta's younger social set, until she married Edward Friendly Rosenbaum, of Salt Lake City, yesterday, came to New York today to see Mrs. Clark Howell, mother of his former fiancee. Mrs Howell declined to discuss her interview with Healey.

She said that Healey went back to Princeton after having had luncheon with her. Asked where the bride and bridegroom could be found, Mrs. Howell said: "I'm sorry to say I do not know."

Miss Carr's engagement to Healey was announced two weeks ago. Yesterday, however, she surprised friends and relatives by her marriage to Rosenbaum.

TELEVISION MAY REVEAL MYSTERY BOX CONTENTS

Joanna Southcott's Noted Mahogany Chest Is to Be Studied.

MEDIUMS ARE INVITED

London, April 30 (By A. P.).—Noctovision, television and other most powerful visions will be brought into play to penetrate the inner secrets of Joanna Southcott's famous mystery box if X-ray tests next week fail to reveal its contents.

The mahogany box of the prophetess, who had a large following on her death in 1814, is in the possession of Harry Price, secretary of the National Laboratory of Psychical Research, and it will be opened if all other tests fail.

Mr. Price has invited 20 leading mediums, Conan Doyle, Sir Oliver Lodge and others interested in a psychical research to aid in solving the long-standing puzzle of the contents of the box which have attracted much attention at intervals for more than 100 years.

Tradition has it that when Joanna, who was a domestic servant and later became a religious fanatic, died, she turned a mysterious box over to Rebecca Pengarth, her sole companion, who solemnly promised it never would be opened except in a national crisis and in the presence of 24 bishops.

Rebecca married John Morgan and bequeathed the box to her son John, who was a gardener for a Devonshire family. On his deathbed John turned the box over to his employer asking him to follow out Joanna's wishes. His last words were "Don't forget the bishops."

The Devonshire man now has gone to Africa and has turned the box over to Mr. Price.

Prior to the X-ray tests, the box will be subjected to seances and mediums will "psychometrize" around it and then write their impressions of what is inside. After this the box will be X-rayed and placed under other rays such as the recently announced "noctovision' by which objects can be seen through fog. If the various tests fail to reveal all the contents of the box, Mr. Price says that it will be opened publicly.

"I dare say some bishops will accept our invitation to attend the opening," Mr. Price said, "as I know several who are interested in psychical research."

The box, which is shaped like the ark of the covenant, is twelve inches by nine and a half inches and weighs eleven pounds. It has a strong old-world padlock, is bound with metal bands and has five black wax seals, bearing the engraved head of George 3d.

The box has been placed on view at psychical research headquarters and is being viewed daily by hundreds of persons, some of whom brought apparatus of their own in an effort to probe its mysteries.

Diplomat at Berlin 21 Years Is Leaving

Berlin, May 1 (By A. P.)—The diplomatic colony is about to lose its oldest member, Baron Wilhelm Gevers, of Holland, for 21 years accredited to the German capital.

Baron Gevers was especially noted for his independence in showing royal honors to the members of the Hohenzollern family even after their fall from power He gave a big dinner to the former crown prince on his return from banishment in Wieringen. The affair created such a stir in Holland that an interpellation was brought into the Dutch parliament by the socialists. The foreign minister cleverly prevented a row, however, by asserting the dinner had been given by Baroness Gevers, "who is a private person."

Microscope Is Gift To Institute Head

tired in a bathrobe, with a coat over it, and was shoeless. He sat calmly on the ledge and continually asked the crowd to give him plenty of room to leap.

The crowd was most obliging. Not only did they spread apart, but beseeched the man to jump. Some were heard to cry out offers of money if Walker would dare the leap. Meanwhile one of the cab drivers had telephoned the rescue squad. Sergt. O. R. Anderson, of the squad, endangering his own life, climbed along the narrow ledge and battled with the man while he bound him with rope. Firemen R. B. White and G. A. Cole aided in taking him from the ledge. He was then turned over to First precinct police, who charged him with intoxication and sent him to the hospital.

WOMEN CAN BALK SMITH IN 1928, IS W.C.T.U. VIEW

Organization Opens Drive in South to Defeat Him as Wet.

RELIGION IS NOT ISSUE

Chicago, May 1 (By A. P.).—Democrat women standing together prevented the nomination of Gov. Al Smith of New York as the Democrat choice for President in 1924 and Democrat women standing together can prevent his nomination in 1928, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, said today in a letter to State W. C. T. U. presidents.

In announcing that the W. C. T. U has started a campaign to defeat Gov Smith if he is a Democratic candidate for President, a statement issued from national W. C. T. U. headquarters at Evanston said that "the W. C. T U. will work to educate the people of the country that Al Smith is a wet and always will be." The campaign will be pressed particularly in the South, said the statement. "Here the women are mainly drys and all Democrats."

State papers issued by the W. C. T U. said the statement will carry first-page announcements of the opposition of the organization, and Mrs. Boole soon is to start a campaign to "arouse the Democratic women of the country to the fact that present political plans seem to be to fool the South and West into believing that Al Smith is merely slightly moist instead of being as wet as the Atlantic ocean."

"As an organization," said Mrs. Boole's letter to State presidents, "the Woman's Christian Temperance union has no part in the controversy in regard to religion. We are, however, vitally concerned that the man who is nominated and elected as the chief magistrate of the United States be a dry and be ready to fulfill his obligations in the execution of this law as of every other law."

During the 20 years Gov. Smith has been in politics, said the letter, he has been closely identified with Tammany hall, which was described as having stood for the saloon and for Sunday opening.

"He may talk about law enforcement," said the letter, "but has never done anything to promote law enforcement. His nomination would be considered a great victory by the wets. It can only be prevented by dry Democrats refusing to be deceived by claims that he is against the saloon and that he favors law enforcement."

POLICE FIGHT CROWD AT WARSHIP LANDING

New York, May 1 (By A. P.).—Police reserves were called today to restore order when 5,000 persons intent on visiting the ships of the fleet in the Hudson got out of control.

Because of the disorder which resulted when hundreds refused to stand in line at the Ninety-sixth street landing wharf for their turn to board the launches, the visiting hours aboard the war vessels were ended at 2 p. m., two hours earlier than schedule. One man was arrested.

An unidentified boy was killed and another boy critically injured as a result of falls from points of vantage, sought in order to view the fleet.

KING, KNOWLES ASSAIL LATIN-AMERICAN POLICY

Coolidge Dictator in Sending Forces to Nicaragua, Senator Tells Meeting.

HAITI IS HELD OUTRAGED

Newark, N. J., May 1 (By A. P.).—An attack upon the policy of the United States government in Latin-American countries was made today by United States Senator William H. King, of Utah, and Horace Greeley Knowles, former Minister to the Dominican Republic and to several Balkan states, speaking at a mass meeting held under auspices of the Mexican property owners' nonintervention league.

Declaring that trouble in Mexico and the other republics by "exploiters who are prepared to sacrifice whole nations to gain their own ends," both made pleas for a "Hands-off" policy.

Senator King criticized the "assumption of dictatorship by President Coolidge when he ordered armed forces to Nicaragua, creating a virtual state of war." He predicted that the treaty settlement now under way there will give general control of the situation to exploiting American financial interests.

Mexico, he said, is the homeland of 15,000,000 Mexicans and yet the natives own only approximately $3,000,000 in land values while Americans control $1,000,000,000 worth.

Mr. Knowles went into what he termed as the exploitation of Haiti and the Dominican Republic by American money interests, until interference there resulted in virtual seizure and dictatorship of the countries by this nation's armed forces.

He recounted alleged outrages on the populace, which he said were committed by the American forces in those lands, and produced a copy of testimony of part of the hearings held by the Sixty-seventh Congress into the Haitian and Dominican occupations by the marines. The hearings were never completed, he said, and the testimony was suppressed.

BUSINESS SITUATION LOOKS FAIR, DESPITE EFFECTS OF FLOOD

Decline in Steel Operations Was Expected—Auto Buyers Are Waiting.

CAR LOADINGS REFLECT COAL SHIPMENT SLUMP

Measures Are Being Taken to Meet Oil Trade Problems. Rain Delays Crops.

New York, May 1 (By the Associated Press).—Widespread damage caused by flood waters in the Mississippi valley had a dampening effect on American business last week, and yet progress on the whole was less unsatisfactory than might have been expected. While disasters of such magnitude can not be fully discounted in so short a time, favorable indications in various lines of trade were sufficient, at least to avert any alarming depression of the balance on the adverse side.

A decline in steel operations from the high peak reached in March was expected, as much of April's business in this industry resulted from the momentum supplied by heavy seasonal demand throughout the preceding month. April production is believed to have set a new record for that month, and it is known that it compares favorably with last year. Most of the reduction in activity was in the Eastern district, Chicago and Birmingham areas showing only moderate slowing up. Steel prices showed a tendency toward lower levels, but there was no expectation of any drastic change.

Car Loadings Are Affected.

Car loadings were affected by the flood and continued to feel the slump in coal shipments resulting from the bituminous miners' strike. The decline from the preceding week was rather sharp, yet the record for the month of April is expected to show a favorable comparison with the same month of last year. Miscellaneous freight loadings continued on the up grade.

Views of the automobile trade appeared to differ. Some increase in demand was reported, but there were many buyers who were inclined to await developments in the industry before contracting for new cars. Talk of new models continued to crop out, including reports of some rather sweeping changes made possible by new inventions.

Predictions that the present era of production will be of long duration gave added color to the troubles of the petroleum industry. However, important executives indicated that the problem is receiving intensive study and that measures will be undertaken to meet the situation, which is one of the most serious ever confronted by producers and marketers of oil.

Irregularity in Textile Trade.

The textile trade showed further signs of irregularity, with the cotton goods branch doing well while silk and wool continued to move slowly, the latter operating at scarcely three-quarters of capacity. The leather business was somewhat more active, but furniture grew more quiet.

Bank clearings in the leading financial centers gained materially over the preceding week and the corresponding week of 1926. Likewise, bank debits were above the totals for the two comparative periods. Credit conditions remained easy, a sharp advance in call money rates at the week-end being attributed wholly to seasonal demands for money on the account of business.

Crops, as a matter of course, were adversely affected by weather irregularities. Estimates of the damage to the cotton crop by the Mississippi valley flood have been hurriedly formed and by no means conclusive, but students are agreed that the crop this year will be enormously reduced. Wheat, oats and corn have all been delayed by heavy rains.

What's Behind Your Stock

Bethlehem Steel Corporation

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation is the second largest producer of steel in this country, being surpassed only in volume of business by the United States Steel Corporation. The company has grown tremendously in recent years, largely as a result of the acquisition of other steel companies, such as the Lackawanna, Cambria and Midvale. Annual steel ingot capacity has been increased from about 3,000,000 tons in 1920 to the present capacity of approximately 7,600,000 tons.

Earnings have been subject to considerable fluctuation, but during the five years, which ended in 1926, net income available for dividends averaged nearly $10,500,000 annually, or to more than 2.6 times the average dividends paid on all preferred stock during the period. The net income of slightly over $20,000,000, reported for 1926, was equal to $7.48 per common share as compared with earnings of $5.30 per common share returned in 1925.

There have been no dividends on the common stock since 1924, but payments on the preferred issues have been maintained. At the time of last report the company had a large surplus and a strong financial condition, the equity for the common stock being much above its par value. No important funded obligations mature prior to 1936.

BOND BUYERS AWAITING JUNE FINANCING PLANS

Week's Market for Listed Securities Remained Extremely Quiet.

FEW AFFECTED BY FLOOD

New York, May 1 (By the Associated Press).—With the tide of new issues rising, and with many traders inclined to "sit tight" and await the next significant development, the market for listed bonds last week was extremely quiet. Unsettled conditions in the stock market, too, resulted in the adoption of a wary attitude by many dealers, and continued easy money conditions appeared to exert little influence other than to keep prices relatively firm.

Observers in Wall street leaned to the opinion that little of moment is likely to transpire in the bond market until after the June financing plans of the government are made public. Whether or not the remaining second Liberty 4¼s will be retired in November of this year probably will be made known by the 15th of this month.

Slight hardening of credit conditions toward the end of the week was attributed entirely to month-end demand for funds, and created no stir in the bond trade. Little disappointment was felt over the maintenance by the New York Federal Reserve Bank of its 4 per cent rediscount rate, as expectations that such an action would not be taken died down when it did not follow on the heels of the Bank of England's reduction of its charge a week before. Since the Belgian rediscount rate was changed during the week, the New York institution remains one of the few which have not effected a revision of rates in the past few months.

In the listed market, a number of issues were affected by the damage caused by floods in the Mississippi valley. Bonds of several railroads, which traverse the flooded regions, were liquidated in large numbers, particularly those of the Missouri Pacific, but prices held up well and closed the week above the level of a month or so ago.

Prospective new offerings again held the attention of bond circles in Wall street. Virtual completion of the loan of $80,000,000 or so to the republic of Poland was understood to have been effected, and offering may be made late this week, or early in the week following. A $28,000,000 advance to Turkey, which is said to have been in the process of negotiation for some time, also was reported nearing a definite conclusion.

Comment was occasioned by the large volume of public utility bonds of foreign issue which have reached the New York market within recent weeks. This total received substantial impetus during the past week by the offering of $10,750,000 first mortgage 7s of the Meridionale Electric Co. of Italy. Renewed reports that the Italian Public Utility Credit 7s are to be called at 105 within a few weeks resulted in a new outburst of activity in that issue at prices hovering a point or so below par.

New offerings during the week totaled about $170,000,000 compared with approximately $105,000,000 in the preceding week, and $132,000,000 in the corresponding week of 1926. The largest of the new issues was one of $21,200,000 6s of the Republic of Argentina, which was promptly absorbed at 99. The proceeds of the loan are being used for various public works in the South American country. An issue of $17,000,000 joint bonds of the Illinois Central & Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans railroads was the largest of a long list of domestic issues offered during the week.

REFUGEES, IN PERIL, STILL REFUSE AID

where the danger was regarded greatest, but still many inhabitants declined to flee. Although at Gould railway trains have been kept waiting, many citizens preferred to stay with their homes and belongings.

Eden, Miss., was inundated when the Yazoo river burst through the dike today, flooding 70,000 fertile acres and driving hundreds of refugees to the camp at Yazoo City. In the latter city, waters covered a wide area after breaking a protective rampart yesterday and inundating four city blocks and a whole exclusive residential section.

River Takes New Course.

The vast Delta lake, increased here and there when small levees caved, was gradually falling in the upper reaches, but had 2 feet to rise in the lower section. Topping levees was a Sunday calling throughout a long stretch on the Yazoo basin.

With the Arkansas river apparently cleaving a new course through South Bend crevasse, Gould may become a town that was if the channel does not swing back eastward. It was estimated that the waters would reach northeast Louisiana before morning, pouring through a rich farming section.

The South Bend plantation mansion of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, was believed doomed, since it lay in the direct path of the waters. Coursing their way to Gould this morning, the floods carried away the South Bend plantation store and many smaller buildings.

No drownings in the whole area of Southeast Arkansas were reported tonight although there were tales of horror about persons marooned or bodies floating in the water, persons believed to have been drowned in the flood from the first breaks in the Arkansas river.

200,000 Require Help.

Plans to work on a county basis in rehabilitating the 200,000 flood sufferers in the Mississippi valley were announced here tonight by Henry M. Baker, director of relief work of the American Red Cross. The executive pointed out, however, that the immediate problem is that of feeding, clothing and sheltering tens of thousands of refugees.

"Each chapter," Mr. Baker declared, "will make as soon as possible a complete survey of relief needs in its county and report to the Memphis relief headquarters. Allotments of funds and financial authority will be extended to these chapters, the amount for each county to be determined by facts gathered from this survey and other sources and the size of the relief fund. Types of relief extended to flood sufferers will be food, clothing, medical aid, household goods and furniture, temporary shelter until the family can reestablish itself, emergency feed, seed, live stock and farm implements. Unless the size of the fund is considerably larger than anticipated, the Red Cross can not undertake any relief not falling in this classification. At the close of the work, the county chapters will make itemized statements of the expenditures to the Memphis headquarters for the final audits and financial statements.

"This is a completely decentralized administration in the interest of speed and efficiency."

BRITISH LABOR BILL FACES BITTER FIGHT

termination to fight the bill inch by inch.

The committee stage of the bill will be a struggle of endurance, with a fight going on the whole time outside, as well as inside, the house, and it is considred safe to assume that the measure will undergo considerable amendment.

The bill will be in charge of Sir Douglas Hogg, the attorney general, whose great legal knowledge, it is expected, will be needed to meet the criticisms. Moreover, the government has been careful to put the bill into the hands of the least provocative ministers—Sir Laming Worthington-Evans and Sir Thomas Inskip.

In the absence of J. Ramsay MacDonald, the labor leader, whose return from the United States has been delayed, John Robert Clynes will take charge of the opposition to the measure. The liberal party will generally oppose the bill, but interest centers in the attitude of Sir John Simon and some other leading liberals who last year were prominent in maintaining the illegality of the general strike.

The substance of the measure, which is known as the "trade disputes and trade unions bill," is contained in the first clause which declares that "any strike having any object besides the furtherance of a trade dispute within the trade or industry in which the strikers are engaged is an illegal strike, if it is a strike designed or calculated to coerce the government, or to intimidate the community or any substantial portion of the community, and that it is illegal to commence, or continue, or apply any sums in furtherance or support of any such illegal strike."

It is set forth that a trade dispute shall not be deemed to be within a trade or industry unless it is a dispute between employers and workmen, or between workmen and workmen in a particular trade or industry. Penalties are provided for those instigating or taking part in an illegal strike, and it is provided further that no person refusing to take part in an illegal strike shall be subject to expulsion from any trade union or society or to any fine or to any deprivation of any rights.

The measure makes unlawful any attempt at intimidation. Picketing is made a criminal offense.

No member of a trade union shall be required to make any contribution to the political fund of the union unless he previously has given notification to the head office or branch office of the trade union of his willingness to make such contribution, and it is provided that all contributions to the political fund of a trade union from members of the union must be levied and made separately from any contributions to the general fund, and no other assets of the union shall be applied to any political object.

Civil servants are prohibited from belonging to trade organizations unless they are confined to persons employed by or under the crown and are independent of regular trade unions.

It is unlawful for any local or public authority to make it a condition of the employment of any person that he shall or shall not be a member of a trade union.

This act does not extend to northern Ireland.

Hearing Owner's Voice Escaped Snake Returns

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., May 1.—A snake—house moccasin, that last November escaped from its captor, George P. Pollock, at Washington, while being exhibited in the Commercial hotel, Luray, and has since been hiding in different parts of the building, yesterday came from its hiding place to greet Mr. Pollock, who is a guest at the same place. Mr. Pollock brought the snake to Luray from the Blue Ridge in November. He had captured it near "Skyland," on top of the Blue Ridge.

When the snake escaped from Mr. Pollock, it glided into an opening on the floor that had been left by plumbers. After numerous efforts to induce the snake to come from its hiding place, Mr. Pollock left Luray for Washington. Yesterday he was a guest at the same hotel. As soon as the snake heard Mr. Pollock's voice it glided from the same opening, crawled up to Mr. Pollock, wriggling itself up his leg. Since the snake has been at the hotel almost every rat and mouse has disappeared.

UNSETTLED CONDITIONS MARK TRADING ON CURB

New High Prices in Some Sections Offset by New Lows in Others.

MANY SPECIALTIES ACTIVE

New York, May 1 (By the Associated Press).—Unsettled conditions marked trading in the curb market last week, new high prices in some sections being offset by new lows in others. The general trend was downward, reflecting the effect to correct the top-heavy position of the market. The average daily total sales was in fairly large volume.

Numerous specialties were active throughout the week, with several new high records. An outstanding feature was the strength of American Cellulose, which went up 23 points to a new high record of 168, in the fact of comparatively poor earnings report for last year. Sugar, retail stores and tobacco shares also displayed intermittent strength.

Prospects of a prolonged era of overproduction and low prices had a depressing effect on oil issues, although a few of them, particularly pipe line shares, had good support. New highs and new lows for the year intermingled in this division.

Public utilities held steady all week in further reflection of some good earnings reports for 1926 and the first quarter of this year. Violent fluctuations, however, occurred in some shares, notably American Light & Traction.

The trend of motor issues was largely reactionary, presumably because of hesitancy of manufacturers growing out of a "trade mystery" or two, and a few pessimistic predictions regarding the outlook.

Bonds of the Argentine Republic, Province of Buenos Aires and American Radiator Co., all new issues, were included in the list of ten securities admitted to trading during the week.

Commission Restrains Merchandize Brokers

(By the Associated Press.)

The Federal Trade Commission has issued an order directing the Glass-Turbush Co. and the Otto L. Kuehn Co., merchandise brokers of Milwaukee and the Wisconsin Wholesale Grocers association to discontinue certain trade practices.

The commission declared the association held that the jobber was the best channel through which the manufacturer should distribute his products to the retailer and that concerns which did not pursue this practice were classified as "irregular." It also found that the two brokerage firms "by cooperating with the association in refusing to sell 'irregulars' receive the hearty support and business of the members of the association." Discontinuance of these practices was ordered.

U. S. Ports Reported Gaining in Cargoes

(By the Associated Press.)

American ports handled 20 per cent greater cargoes in 1926 than in the preceding year when the previous high record was set, it was announced yesterday by the Shipping Board.

The total volume of water-borne foreign commerce in ports of this country last year exceeded 112,900,000 cargo tons. The export total was 68,100,000 tons or 34.7 per cent greater than in 1925, most of the increase consisting of coal shipments resulting from the British strike. More than 44,800,000 tons were imported, an increase of 2 per cent over the previous year.

FIVE LEVEES BREAK; MORE LIVES ARE LOST

probably would be flowing over the levees at Newellton in Tensas parish before morning. A large crew of men was at work topping the dykes and combatting sand boils at that place.

Four Men Are Drowned.

Additional casualties in the flood were reported from north of Vicksburg, where a small boat was overturned, drowning four white men. These were the first deaths reported in several days and increased to more than 110 the known number who have perished since the Mississippi and its tributaries started on their rampage more than three weeks ago.

With the greatest floods of record forecast for this week on the Black and Ouachita rivers in northeastern Louisiana, a fleet of rescue boats have been sent into that section by the coast guard as well as up the Red river. A part of this fleet was approaching Monterey and Jonesville and was to take out all the people in the threatened areas, transporting them to the huge concentration camps at Natchez and Baton Rouge. A flotilla of 26 coast guard power boats was unloaded today at Natchez, making a total of 126 craft available for rescue work between Memphis and New Orleans. These boats will be scattered over the flooded area to bring out those marooned on levees, trees, housetops and promontories.

Vicksburg, Miss., May 1 (By A. P.).—A negro was shot by a Mississippi national guardsman here tonight near the water front in an affray which arose over the question of whether the negro should aid in carrying relief supplies aboard a boat.

SURRENDER OF COLLEGES TO MODERNISTS TALKED

Fundamentalist Speaker Says "Marauders" Control Them at Present Time.

WOULD MAKE NEW START

Atlanta, May 1.—The feasibility of surrendering the fundamentalist institutions throughout the country to the "modernest-marauders" who seek them, and starting anew of the campaign for a literal interpretation of the Bible, was suggested at the opening session of the World's Christian Fundamentalist association convention here today.

Already these institutions, according to the Rev. W. B. Riley, Minneapolis, president of the association, are "uniformly manned by the unbelievers" and might well be surrendered "as a liability and into as an asset."

Such a surrender would permit the fundamentalists to go forth, he said, as a new organization "as poor, perhaps, as the original disciples" but able to declare afresh the mission of the church of Christ.

"Some of us have seen enough," Dr. Riley said, after discussing the conflict between the modernist and fundamentalist forces. "We know that our denominationalism means nothing to us but a deception. It seems to bind into a brotherhood men that have nothing in common but a brand of the same name, when the great truth is that in every evangelical denomination there are millions of men who are practically in one faith and one heart, and who ought, without longer delay, surrender up to these modernist-marauders these institutions, now uniformly manned by the unbelievers, as a liability and not an asset."

At the present time, Dr. Riley said, money was the only thing that was holding the fundamentalists and modernists in the same church. He told of educational developments under fundamentalist guidance, and of the millions of dollars worth of property involved, which would be lost were a break to be made.

The outcome of the situation would be, he said, a new alignment in religious belief from which would be formed three distinct religious bodies in America, the fundamentalists, the liberalists and the Catholics. Already, he said, the fundamentalists and liberalists found in every denomination are in "undying hostility." This state of affairs he declared to be the "strangest freak of the twentieth century," the finding of men in the same church who believe in Christ and who deny Him, and who believe in the inspired Bible and who deny its inspiration.

The convention will last seven days, and many well-known exponents of fundamentalism are on the program. Tomorrow's program includes an address by the Rev. Dr. Luther Little, of Charlotte; one by the Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, Wichita, Kans., and the Rev. Dr. Robert Dick Wilson, Princeton, N. J.

$14,200,000 IS INCOME OF ANACONDA COPPER

Report Is Equivalent to $4.74 Per Share of Common Stock.

New York, May 1 (By A. P.).—The pamphlet report for 1926 of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. and subsidiaries, made public tonight, shows net income of $14,231,218, the equivalent of about $4.74 a share on the common stock outstanding. This compares with net earnings for 1925 of $17,540,532, or approximately $5.85 a share.

The report shows that, while manufactured products of the American Brass Co. and Rolling Mills, and the production of zinc increased during the year, there was a decrease in copper output.

An important step taken in 1926 was the organization of the Silesian-American Corporation to take over a number of zinc and coal operating companies in the European field. The outstanding half interest in the Anselmo Mining Corporation also was purchased, giving Anaconda full ownership of that concern.

Production of copper ore for the year amounted to 2,562,344 tons, and of zinc, 17,467 tons.

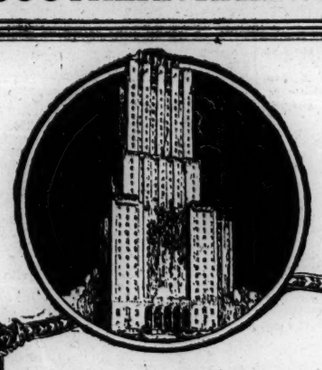

Net income of the Chile Copper Co. and subsidiary companies, for 1926, amounted to $11,655,997, against $11,939,151 in 1925. The Chile company is controlled by Anaconda.

NEW YORK SOCIETY STARTS HOUSEHOLD EMPLOYES' SCHOOL

Aim Is to Place Staffs on a Plane With the Other Workers.

NINE HOURS SCHEDULE; PLAN OVERTIME PAY

Bachelors' Apartments to Be Kept in Order by Organization.

New York, May 1 (By A. P.).—New York society leaders expect to train their own household employes and elevate domestic service to the dignity of a profession.

Scientific Housekeeping, Inc., a co-operative organization formed by a group of society matrons, every one of whom is listed in the social register, is the medium through which the effort will be made.

Mrs. Richard Boardman has been elected president, Mrs. Henry S. Patterson, vice president; Mrs. Vinto Freedly, secretary, and Mrs. Seth M. Milliken, treasurer. The directors will be Mrs. Henry C. Bartol, Miss Eva T. McAdoo, Mrs. Francis Carter Wood, Mrs. Charles Arthur Richards, Mrs. Robert S. Walker, Mrs. Morrill Goddard and Mrs. Langdon Geer and Mrs. James D. Pell, honorary directors.

A test kitchen and training school will be maintained where all domestic workers will be required to qualify before they are declared eligible for service. This school will be established at Mrs. Boardman's home.

To Be Called "Miss."

Under the scheme each domestic employe will be "miss" to her employers and members of the household. "We are convinced that the solution of the domestic problem lies in giving employes a recognized rank and standing with other workers," said Mrs. Boardman.

"The domestic worker of the future will be strictly a professional worker. She will be expected, as a result of the training she will receive, to approach as closely as possible to perfection in personal appearance and deportment and efficiency of service.

"On the other hand, she will have recognized standing, work no more than nine hours per day, with a fixed scale of pay for overtime, and will live and take her meals out, unless other arrangements are made, in which event she will pay the head of the house an agreed-upon sum for her board and lodging. In other words, she will live exactly like her sisters in offices, stores and elsewhere."

To Care for Details.

"Once a cook, waitress or maid, or an entire staff of domestic employes has been engaged," Mrs. Boardman pointed out, "we will do the rest. Our supervisors will oversee the work of the staff, look after the proper uniforms, keep an eye on expenditures in the kitchen and adjust all differences that may arise between the head of the home and her employes. We will even pay the staff, if desired, and render, a bill at the end of the month."

Scientific housekeeping is prepared to look after the needs of bachelors, Mrs. Boardman said, taking a duplicate key to apartments and seeing that they are kept in order.

Its services will not be restricted to those who are in the social register. Any one who is willing to subscribe to the rules and pay the membership fees which will be assessed to bear the expense of the training school and test kitchen and the general upkeep of the staff may avail themselves of the service.

AT THE LOCAL THEATERS

PALACE

"Thrills to burn" describes succinctly the spectacular film "The Fire Brigade," set for the week at Loew's Palace. For they don't come any hotter or packed with more "thrillers." Chic May McAvoy and the irrepressible comedian Charles Ray are seen in the title roles.

"The Fire Brigade" has an added interest to the film devotees when it is recalled that it is not all moving picture "stuff." There is back of the film the entire resources of the Los Angeles fire department, as well as the cooperation of the International Order of Fire Engineers. This dual cooperation lends to the photoplay a genuineness and sincerity that could hardly be obtained otherwise.

The story is rather slow getting under way—background being necessary in order to carry the human interest appeal. There is Mother O'Neil and her four sons and husband. The "old man" and the boys constitute most of the fire department. Two eventually pay with their lives for devotion to their calling. Then comes the big moment for the remaining son—the youngest—impersonated by Charles Ray. This is an orphanage fire, hugely terrific and appalling. A love story runs through the play. Terry O'Neil—the youngest and Helen Corwin—daughter of wealth.

The stage feature for the week is Frank Silver, author of "Yes, We have No Bananas," his orchestra and Sid Gary, "the Caruso of Jazz." Silver has with his tiptop organization a comedian of some parts in his drummer—and a drummer of unusual parts in his trap comedian. Enough so that if encores are not responded to there is likely to be a house riot. The public wants what it wants when it wants it.

The overture for the week is a Gannon arrangement, "Gems From Friml." It is up to the usual Gannon standard of offerings, rendered with his quiet artistry of the baton.

A photographic prologue specially arranged as an introduction to the featured film is the novelty for the week. The usual topical news feature rounds out the bill.

COLUMBIA

Gloria Swanson, starring in "The Love of Sunya," began a second week at the Columbia yesterday. It is another attempt to prove the correctness of the theory that spirits are reincarnated to repair, or to receive reparation for a former crime. Sunya is the receiver and a gypsy the debtor. Sunya's father needs money and it devolves upon his daughter to procure it. She may marry a rich friend, and thus secure immediate aid; she may go to Paris to sing in the Opera Comique, and thus, eventually, save their fortunes, or she may marry Paul, her beloved, who is a struggling clerk. The gypsy allows her to gaze in the crystal, and she sees and portrays the consequences of the first two.

The whole affair would be a perfect conundrum to one entering the theater even a few minutes after the start of the feature. The transpositions from the dutiful daughter to the successful opera singer, to the neglected wife and finally back to Sunya herself are done with a whirlwind of commendable photography and so suddenly as to be almost startling. It is in these insertions that Gloria Swanson gives her several different characterizations. She plays the quiet daughter, the fiery opera singer, and the sacrificing and wronged wife to perfection. If any were to be adjudged the best, Sunya herself would be named. The scenes vary with the character from luxurious rooms to dark, rainy streets.

While Gloria does her splendid acting her cast is by no means idle. Most impressive among her support is the gypsy, well portrayed by Andres de Sugurola. John Boles plays opposite as Paul, and the remainder of the cast includes Florella Fairbanks, Raymond Hackett and Hugh Miller. A new newsreel with pictures of the flood district, a clever magazine comedy and orchestral overture are additional numbers.

METROPOLITAN

Corinne Griffith, in "Three Hours," a film drama of somber emotions, has first place on the new Metropolitan bill, which also contains, besides news and scenic pictures, a clever Ben Turpin comedy and two new Vitaphone reels. Checking up on the Vitaphone from week to week is interesting but also puzzling. This thing apparently didn't know how to put over full orchestra effects, and now it comes along and echoes another of those admirable jazz outfits, called the Rollickers, with all the mingling madness of the real thing. Again, Martinelli's rendering a few weeks ago of an aria from "Pagliacci" seemed wonderfully successful, whereas now it conveys his low notes in "Celeste Aida" in a manner not so good. On the other hand, some of the prolonged higher tones are carried with amazing power and purity.

"Three Hours" is a courageous thing, one of the few ventures of Movieland in consistent sadness. If tragedy is to go in the films it must be driven by some strong and firm hand on the highest plane of art. Splendid emotional acting, such as Corinne Griffith and Hobart Bosworth provide in this picture, is not sufficient. The story itself must strike home. This one might, perhaps, but somehow it doesn't reach deep enough to make tears worth while.

The trouble is, this is just one of those romantic themes, dear to the short-story writer, in which a young man encounters a beautiful woman in a fog and fares into strange adventure. This time the young lady proves to be the divorced wife of a wealthy and elderly eccentric who has driven her from home by a jealousy which, though insanely cruel and relentless, is not wholly causeless. Her husband has refused to let her see their little daughter, but now at last she has a message from him granting permission for once. Desperate for funds, and unwilling to let the child see her shabbiness, she steals the fat wallet of the young hero of the fog and buys finery. He follows and captures her, feeds her and hears her sad story. Then they go together to the mansion. The revenge of the implacable husband furnishes a decidedly unusual as well as painful and horrifying climax, which gives way in the end to a factitious note of comfort.

EARLE

A combination of classical music rendered by the marvelous voice of Joseph Rosenblatt, a minstrel fantasy carried over with snappy action, two soubrettes in "really something different" and a first-class comedy feature picture will attract the crowds this week to the Earle.

Joseph Rosenblatt, billed as "The Miracle Voice of the Age," gives us songs in English, Italian, Russian and Yiddish. His high range, as well as low, and his presentation of the numbers won him much applause from his audience.

Norma Norton and Joe Davis, with the support of Mae Besson, Agnes Willis, Angelo Accaria Bros., William and Billy Lang, give us a new type of minstrel. There are some new as well as old jokes, some good singing, dancing and music.

Mazie Clifton and Billy de Rex, dancers from "The Scandals," brought down the house. They are clever and put over some new stunts. The skit of "Oh! Henry" can afford a little less of the "talk" and more of the singing and dancing—for the voices of both the players are good.

Johnny Hines is the star of the feature picture "All Aboard," with able support by Edna Murphy and Dot Farley. It is, of course, one of those fast-going comedy jams in which Johnny gets himself all mixed up and in lots of trouble. Johnny is a shoe clerk and is continually "forgetting." Thomas Brooks, of Brooks' Tours (personally conducted from his office), drops in the store with his daughter for a pair of shoes. Johnny is much infatuated with the daughter, who leaves her purse on the bench. His forgetfulness brings his discharge, and Johnny goes to return the purse just in time to get a job as guide on one of the tours to Africa. Johnny forgets almost everything while conducting the tour, except the girl (played by Edna Murphy).

The Earle theater management this week is donating a portion of receipts to the District of Columbia war memorial, and, beginning tonight, will add extra features to the bill.

RIALTO

Popularity of John Gilbert and Renee Adoree as a motion picture team was never better attested than on Saturday and yesterday at the Rialto theater when that playhouse, showing a revival of "Monte Cristo," literally turned people away at all performances.

The play, based on the celebrated novel by Dumas, deals with the adventures of a French sailor, Edmond Dantes, who, on the eve of his marriage, is arrested on false charges and thrown into prison, where he remains for 20 years. He finally escapes, finds an enormous fortune left by a former fellow prisoner, and thus, armed with a new identity and great wealth, starts out to seek revenge. How he succeeds in accomplishing that revenge makes a thrilling story, one of the great French writer's best.

Gilbert, Renee Adoree and Estelle Taylor have the leading roles, and the supporting cast is excellent. This is the picture that established all three of these stars, particularly Gilbert, and he has traveled an ascending path in the movies ever since.

The scenic effects are splendid. Some of the sets are made from ideas furnished by rare French prints and are realistic in the extreme.

On the stage Rita Lopez, Spanish stage and screen beauty, gives a new interpretation to the word "dance." She is an exotic creature and her dances must be seen to be appreciated.

There are the customary short features and, of course, Rox Rommell and the Rialto orchestra.

LITTLE THEATER

This week at the Little theater there is another double feature bill, from France. The first is "Crainquebille." Simply and quietly, with a mastery of medium reminiscent of the similar picture which followed it by two years, "The Last Laugh," this production translates to the screen the mental reactions of a human. Not a little of its beauty lies in the acting of Maurice de Feraudy in the title role. He depicts a pathetic and childlike old peddler, who becomes bewildered by the "majesty" of justice when he is falsely arrested. M. De Feraudy is a star of the Comedie Francaise of Paris.

The other feature is a new comedy, "Madame Wants No Children," produced in Europe. Maria Corda, who has just been imported to play in American pictures, is the star. It is very amusing from a continental view-point; it is unlikely that the average American will see much in it. The guild evidently expects this, as it announces in its program, "'Madame' is an exemplar of the touch and tempo in the better European films."

The bill is completed with the third of the foolish but funny "super-productions," written by Jim Ring, of the Washington Times, and entitled "My Old Liver Trouble," and the splendid music and overture by the Little Theater trio.

KEITH'S

Edwin Burke, who has a flair for one-act comedies, furnishes the vehicle for William Faversham's return to vaudeville, a short tour before his appearance next season as Cardinal Wolsey in Shakespeare's "King Henry VIII." The skit at Keith's is "The Sponger," a travesty on marital difficulties. Edith Campbell, Mr. Faversham's wife, appears in the act.

Though Faversham, not seen here in at least two years, is headliner at Keith's this week, there are at least two acts that vie with his for popularity, judged from the audiences yesterday. The show is what is known on the circuit as "a unit," one that carries along its own chorus—eight young ladies, who furnish a background for several acts.

The opening number—and a good one—is provided by Will Ferry, a contortionist, in "Human Art." Next come Bud and Jack Pearson in "Don't Tell the Doctor." Then Jack Kraft and Elsie LaMont in a comedy turn, "Put Up the Lights." The chorus works through these acts, excepting that of Bud and Jack Pearson. Occupying a spot all his own is Herbert Clifton in his travesties of the weaker sex—a female impersonator well known here.

Max and Henry Gaudsmith and their two poodles have an act out of the ordinary; probably one of the finest of its kind working the two-a-day. They come near gathering the bulk of the comedy honors.

Ethel Davis, a young lady somewhat reminiscent of Sophie Tucker, if only in her manner of rendering songs and patter, has a lively and well-staged act—built up mostly on personality and plenty of pep, with an occasional clever character impersonation. She registered high in the scale last night.

The final get-together of the various parts of the unit show takes place at the end in a miniature musicomedy, "London, Paris and New York," wherein the chorus and principals foregather on the main stems of these various cities. Not at all bad, and enlivened by fast dancing—tap and otherwise.

All told, a well-balanced bill that brings back a star of the legitimate theater and several acts that have won their spurs on the Keith circuit.

The Pathe news is up to the minute with pictures of the stricken flood district in Louisiana. Regular house features fill out the program.

STRAND

There is a good make-up at the Strand this week, with some old popular jokes that make a hit with everybody. "Hollywood," a musical comedy, is the title under which the Strand players present many skits.

Miss Billie La Monte gives good account of herself in "She Did." She also took part in such scenes as "Ma, Look at Him," "Willie the Weeper," "Hats," "The Doctor," and "Sally," with such players as Earl Root, Lewis, Hamp, McTwiggin, the Misses Vincent, Shaeffer, Bud Brewer. Earl Root is greatly accountable for the success achieved by the players.

Garner and Wolf make a hit with their banjo and singing. They are again featured as an attraction.

Miss Shaeffer sings "Get Hot Death Valley," and is liked by the audience in all scenes that she takes part in.

The "Little Shamrock Sweetheart," Miss Deery, is never to be forgotten because of her grace and is rapidly climbing toward Broadway. She sings "South Wind."

Grant and Adair perform another specialty dance with the ease that marks them as being very accomplished.

Arthur Manvell's orchestra plays the overture "Hoosier Sweetheart," and the exit march "Wherever You Go."

"Slide, Kelly, Slide," is the name of the screen attraction for the beginning of this week but on Wednesday it will be supplanted by "The Broken Gate." Kelly slides to victory for the Yankees after a hard fought victory over his vanity and is rewarded by the embrace of his fellow players. This presentation is shown with William Haines, and Sally O'Neil.

GAYETY

Three to make ready and four to go! is the spirit of "4-11-44," the riproaring brownskin show closing the season over at Ira J. La Motte's Gayety this week.

Eddie Hunter, starring as Rufus Skunkton Lime, is as amusing as ever with his own "Oh My, Oh My, Oh My!" always the signal for convulsions of mirth on the part of the audience. His side-kick, Rufus Wise, played by George W. Cooper, is an excellent foil for Eddie's native humor. The ingenue, Aurora Greeley, dances and sings attractively, together with Leroy Broomfield, whose song, "Adeline," goes over well. On this number many hot stepping boys and girls shove their ankles around advantageously, and it's hard for the spectators to remain quietly seated. The feminine comedy lead, Sarah Ophelia Green, is done by Andrew Tribble. He, she or it merited the many laughs received for various scenes of clean but lively humor.

Grayce Rector leads the snappy chorus in their stunts, putting lots of enthusiasm into her specialty and other numbers. Crawford Jackson taps the Charleston and other dances in high speed. They have a kid doing the role of a psychopathic patient, whose acting is par excellence. Whether he's another Charles Gilpin will have to be discovered.

The prize-winning scene in this show is that in the bootblack-bootlegging parlor, and the song hit is the one used in this scene: "He Is In." However, the other music by Lieut. Tim Brymm, present in person in a nobby dinner jacket, is riotous, to say the least.

BRITISH RADICALS ASSAIL LABOR BILL

demonstrations, but the thousands of police on duty prevented disorders.

As the trade union bill is to come up before parliament tomorrow, many banners were carried in the procession reading: "This is May day; tomorrow will be blackleg day." Another read: "We will strike again, and we will strike to win."

One float represented the third international. On it were children dressed in costumes of all nations. An American boy wore an Uncle Sam costume. The children sang the international hymn. Bagpipers and drum corps played "Marching Through Georgia" and "John Brown's Body." Numerous bands scattered throughout the procession played the "Marseillaise."

Will Resist Tie-Up.

While the labor demonstrations were proceeding, Lieut. Col. Wilfrid Ashley, minister of transport, presided over an antisocialist meeting in the park, these Sunday meetings of the conservatives to counteract labor agitations being a recent feature of the conservative tactics. Col. Ashley declared: "We will resist to the utmost the endeavors of one section to coerce the people of this country by means of a general strike or to overawe the authority of parliament."

A huge mass meeting in Albert hall tonight was addressed by A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners' federation; George Lansbury, labor member of parliament, and S. Saklatvala, communist member of parliament.

The meeting adopted a resolution pledging the support of the workers to the council of the industrial, political and parliamentary labor movement in its opposition to the government's trade union bill, which it described as "designed to deprive the workers of effective powers of resistance when their standards of life and conditions of employment are assailed by organized employers."

Day Quiet in France.

Paris, May 1 (By A. P.).—France enjoyed a quiet May day. It was hardly to be distinguished from any bright Sunday in spring except that there was much more open-air oratory than usual and fewer public vehicles. An airplane flew over the suburbs in order to spot any unusual concentrations of people, but there was none.

Paris had its regular May day assembly of discontented souls on "Red Butte," in the East End, but in a measure they satisfied themselves by talking, listening to speeches and waving red flags.

The provinces were equally peaceful.

Rome, Italy, May 1 (By A. P.).—May day this year meant to Rome the first real warm Sunday of early summer, but in political significance it was utterly barren. Not the slightest incident appeared on the surface of the city's ordinary Sunday activity.

Reports from industrial centers more likely to feel the tension were lacking this evening, but the government officials were of the opinion that equal tranquillity prevailed in Milan, Turin and Trieste.

Communist agitators, according to circulars largely distributed in the last few days, did not urge the holding of demonstrations, but asked the workers to celebrate the day by joining the general confederation of labor, which, in clandestine form, now is openly communistic.

Arrests in Tokyo.

Tokyo, Japan, May 1 (By A. P.).—The May day demonstrations in Tokyo passed off quietly and there were few arrests. Resolutions were adopted by the laborites in favor of an eight-hour day and a policy of noninterference in China.

Warsaw, Poland, May 1 (By A. P.).—Owing to the cold weather and heavy rain May day in Warsaw was quieter than usual, but there were several clashes between socialists and communist adherents.

The socialists had their annual street meeting and parade. They were accompanied in the parade by cars loaded with militia, which compelled the communists to keep a respectful distance.

There were several clashes between nationalist students and communists requiring police intervention. A young communist was seriously wounded and 20 others were slightly injured. Two hundred communists were arrested throughout the day.

COWDRAY, 71, BRITISH OIL MAGNATE, IS DEAD

Viscount Was Pioneer in Mexico; Aberdeen Had Planned Tribute.

Aberdeen, Scotland, May 1 (By A. P.).—Viscount Cowdray, 71 years old, oil and industrial magnate of Great Britain and for a period during the world war chairman of the British air board, died today at his Scottish residence, Duncecht house.

Better known to the business world as Weetman Dickinson Pearson, he was one of the world's greatest oil kings. He and Edward L. Doheny were the pioneers in opening up the Mexican oil fields, about which Mexico's present international squabble turns.

He began his business life as a member of the family firm of S. Pearson & Son, contractors, and ultimately became the head of the organization whose undertakings he greatly extended, especially in Mexico and South America, where large interests were acquired.

He was created a baronet in 1894 and raised to the peerage in 1910.

Lord Cowdray's death puts an end to a number of festivities in recognition of his extensive benefactions to Aberdeen, amounting to about £75,000, given at various times for public works, hospitals and various charities. He had large estates in Aberdeenshire, and Kincardineshire, and numerous members of his family had gathered for the presentation to him of the freedom of the city.

Dismal Swamp Fire Leaves Ruin in Wake

Elizabeth City, N. C., May 1 (By A. P.).—The forest fire of the last two days in the Dismal swamp now is replaced by burned out timber and the wreck of the old Arbuckle mill in the area north of Arbuckle's landing.

The fire had raged for several days, but late yesterday and today was a thing of the past, so far as reports here tonight indicated.

Highway to Deauville Has Hospital Service

Paris, May 1 (By A. P.).—The Paris-Deauville road, well marked with automobile wrecks every summer, is to have regular hospital service.

First aid stations are to be established along the 140 miles of the speedway to the seashore by the Touring club of France.

At each 100 points, or every mile and a half, there will be equipment for emergency medical attention. At certain points there will be provision for summoning doctors and ambulances.

The road is the most popular out of Paris, and as it leads to the country's most fashionable and most expensive resort, there always are many fast cars.

Spring Find You Languid?
Unеliminated Blood Impurities Make One Tired and Listless

DO these spring days find you languid and out of sorts? Too many feel tired and listless in the spring. Too often the cause is sluggish kidneys.

To be well the kidneys must thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys permit waste impurities to remain and cause slow poisoning of the system.

One is apt to feel tired and drowsy—to have a dull, nagging backache and annoying headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not working right is often shown by scanty or burning excretions.

Assist the kidneys with a stimulant diuretic.* Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Doan's act on the kidneys only—are endorsed from coast to coast. Ask your neighbor!

*Diuretics are agents which increase the secretion of the kidneys.—Encyclopaedia definition.

50,000 Users Publicly Endorse Doan's

J. L. Richardson, 511 E. High Street, Portland, Ind., says: "The action of my kidneys seemed to get worse all the time, and the secretions pained in passage. I tired easily and finally got so that I couldn't do any work. A dull backache made me miserable. It was only after using Doan's Pills that I got well."

Mrs. F. E. Watson, 7 High St., Lynn, Mass., says: "The time came when I found myself in bad health. The kidney secretions were scalding and caused me much annoyance. My back ached constantly and I had attacks of dizziness. Doan's Pills were prompt in helping me and I shall never cease to be grateful to them."

FOREIGN ATTITUDE TOWARD CHINA.

Premier Briand is said to be fearful of a clash between British and Chinese forces. He has advised the French cabinet that the British government seems to be inclined to play a lone hand in China, in view of the failure of the treaty powers to agree upon a program for dealing with the situation that followed the dispatch of the identic notes of the powers to Eugene Chen and Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek. All reports from China agree that the British government and British residents of China favor a vigorous policy that will insure respect for foreign interests. The French premier is reported to apprehend that the British will even go so far as to take forcible possession of Hankow.

Japan is reported to be in active correspondence with the powers, trying to find a middle course that will be acceptable to the United States and Great Britain. The United States has not favored a retaliatory policy, and has refused to consider the application of sanctions to enforce the demands made upon the Cantonese. On this account Japan is fearful that the Chinese may take advantage of the disagreement among the powers.

Shanghai appears to be a hotbed of intrigue in behalf of aggressive action by all the powers against China. Americans at Shanghai seem to be as imperialistic as any other foreigners. "We shall lose prestige if we do not back up our demands by force," writes an American naval officer. "Force is the only argument that the Chinese understand or respect. Conciliatory measures offered by us are accepted by them as admission of weakness."

President Coolidge last week outlined American policy in a few words. He expressed the sympathy of Americans for the movement that aims at the achievement of independence and good government in China. He declared that the sole purpose of American war vessels and marines in China was to protect Americans.

Notwithstanding the appeals and arguments of foreign governments and interests, which attempt to show that the United States ought to cooperate with other powers and exercise coercion against China in order to protect foreign interests, the American people stand solidly behind President Coolidge in his determination to avoid a clash with any Chinese party or government. The foreign powers and the Shanghai commercial interests believe that vigorous intervention will cause the Chinese to restore foreign property and respect foreign lives. These foreigners apparently do not attach any weight to the fact that China is engaged in civil war and can not be expected to turn its attention wholly to the protection of foreign interests. The United States, on the other hand, is disposed to make allowance for China's distracted condition, and is confident that patient, friendly forbearance now will result in full compensation and firm friendship later, when China is in a position to treat with foreign nations.

In spite of personal and party intrigues in China, the movement toward the establishment of a responsible general government is making progress. The American method of dealing with the situation is more far-sighted than the method adopted by some foreign governments. Foreign intervention would merely solidify Chinese sentiment against all foreigners, and the difficulties in establishing satisfactory relations after the present civil war would be greatly increased.

GERMAN-FRENCH POTASH MONOPOLY.

The investigations of the Interior Department, through the geological survey and the bureau of mines, will probably result eventually in the development of a potash industry in the United States which will free the country from the French and German alliance that monopolizes the American market. But that day is far distant, and in the meantime the United States is absolutely dependent upon the European supply for fertilizer and all other products of which potash is an important ingredient.

Because the Franco-German societies which control the deposits in Germany and Alsace have formed a monopoly, under which they are accused of having increased the prices to American consumers without reference to the cost of production, suits were instituted against the potash "cartel" for violations of the Sherman act and the antitrust provisions of the Wilson tariff act. Following the institution of this suit representatives of the Franco-German producers requested the Department of Justice to give them an opportunity to be heard, and conferences were held during April for the purpose of considering proposals made by the cartel for conducting its business in the American market pending the determination of the litigation.

In order to avoid the dislocation of the potash business and maintain an uninterrupted importation of potash, the defendants submitted a plan by means of which they propose to import potash to this country. This plan contemplates the organization of a European corporation which will maintain a selling agency, and will do business in the United States. This plan, defendants contend, complies with all the laws of the United States, and will have no purpose other than the delivery of potash here.

The Department of Justice states that it has not approved this plan, but, on the contrary, has specifically reserved the right to proceed against the corporation to be formed and to question its legality if either its character or its conduct warrants action, under the antitrust laws. Pending litigation, however, it is not the purpose of the government to seek to restrain the importation and sale of potash in the United States.

MASTERING THE MISSISSIPPI.

There is grave apprehension that the worst of the Mississippi flood is yet to come. The levees along the lower stretches of the river are yet to be tested by the crest of the flood. At Vicksburg the new flood mark is one foot above the highest previous record. Human beings, like ants, are working on the levees, striving to raise and strengthen them.

The call for help rises above the roar of the waters. The Red Cross must vastly amplify its original plans as new regions are flooded and the populations overwhelmed. The public must give quickly if life is to be saved and suffering alleviated. It is a national emergency, ranking in disastrous effects with the worst calamities of history. Every citizen should feel in this appalling situation that he must contribute something to the relief of his fellow citizens who are in the grasp of merciless forces.

Secretary Hoover and Maj. Gen. Jadwin, chief of engineers, have joined in a statement that calls nation-wide attention to the Mississippi flood problem. They hold that permanent relief may be delayed by excursions into impractical plans for catching flood waters before they reach the Mississippi. The only sure method of controlling the river between Cairo and New Orleans, in their opinion, is by building higher and stronger levees and by affording a better outlet to the gulf by spillways below New Orleans. The building of reservoirs in the upper tributaries of the Mississippi would be useful for power and to prevent local floods, but would not prevent the flooding of the country below Cairo, because the rainfall in the river basin causes these floods. Reservoirs constructed below Cairo, according to Mr. Hoover and Gen. Jadwin, would cover as much fertile territory as that saved by their construction.

The opinion expressed by Mr. Hoover and Gen. Jadwin commands respect, but their reference to the comparative ineffectiveness of storage reservoirs on tributaries as a means of controlling the Mississippi will be challenged by many engineers. It stands to reason that the Mississippi would be easier to control if it were not swollen by tremendous volumes from the Des Moines, Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, Cumberland, Tennessee, Arkansas, Red and other rivers. The Mississippi would be smaller than some of its tributaries if all of them were separated from it. Few will deny that if the Ohio, Cumberland and Tennessee rivers were now in flood the city of New Orleans would be destroyed.

The problem of power development is inseparably connected with the problem of flood control of the Mississippi. If the great tributaries are to be held back by reservoirs, millions of horsepower will be made available. Statesmanship is required to work out a plan that will make this water power pay for the cost of controlling the Mississippi. Private enterprise, properly regulated, would doubtless be most effective in providing capital and constructing the vast works that would be necessary. Experience has shown that if the government itself should construct and attempt to operate power plants it would encounter baffling if not fatal difficulties. "Muscle Shoals" is the ominous phrase that warns believers in government ownership and operation of water power plants to count the cost of that method.

SIX YEARS' STUDY.

In recommending to the President an increase in the number of midshipmen at the Annapolis Academy from 1,600 to 2,400 the board of visitors really suggests that the term of study be extended from four to six years, and the suggestion seems worthy of serious consideration.

At present all middies who attend the classes for four years without being "bilged" are given commissions as ensigns if they successfully pass the final examinations. The board recommends that instead of being permanently commissioned immediately after graduation the graduates be given probationary commissions for two years. With these commissions it is proposed that the middies have two years of sea duty immediately. At the end of that trick of duty they would be again examined as to the knowledge necessary for a modern officer, and if found capable they would then be given permanent commissions.

By increasing the number of students at the academy it will be possible to select more carefully those who are eventually to command the ships of the navy. The probationary appointments will aid in weeding out those boys who, while qualified from an academic standpoint, may be lacking in the qualifications essential to efficient service on the ships of the fleet.

The modern man of war is a complicated machine and the man who commands one of them today must be able to do much more than "hand, reef, and steer," which was the sum of requirements in the days of John Paul Jones.

"DRUNKEN BARNABY."

A mystery of authorship, which remained unsolved for 180 years, enshrouded the work known as "Barnabae Itinerarium, or Barnabee's Journey," which appeared for the first time in 1638 under the pseudonym "Corymbaeus." This was a facetious but somewhat aimless book, written in rhymed Latin, with a translation into corresponding English doggerel verse. One of its best known stanzas is:

> In progressu boreali
> Ut processi ab australi,
> Veni Banbury, O profanum!
> Ubi vidi Puritanum
> Pelem facientem furem,
> Quod Sabbatho stravit murem;

of which the English version given is:

> In my progress travelling northward
> Taking farewell of the southward,
> To Banbury came I, O profane one!
> Where I saw a puritane one
> Hanging of his cat on Monday
> For killing of a mouse on Sunday.

This book had a great vogue and was often reprinted under the title of "Drunken Barnaby's Four Journeys," but it was not until it reached its seventh edition in 1818 that the author was revealed as Richard Brathwaite. It was its many allusions to strong ale and to heavy drinking, with its joys and also its inconveniences, that caused the epithet "drunken" to be prefixed to the mythical "Barnaby," who was quite gratuitously supposed to be relating the actual experiences of the author. It was, in fact, a mere jeu d'esprit, a flight of the imagination, and Brathwaite seems to have been quite a decorous citizen, who was a good deal of a scholar, as well as the writer of numerous other works in verse and prose. He had some gift of humor, and in "Art Asleep, Husband?" a collection of "bolster lectures," he anticipated in the seventeenth century the Mrs. Caudle of the nineteenth.

In "The English enti[illegible]an," Brathwaite, in both a wise and a witty way, denounced various faults, such as vanity, foppery, idleness, hotheadedness, and intemperance of every kind. He is particularly severe on the dangers and disgraces of intemperance in the use of drink.

It seems to be a real touch of the irony of fate that a man who was so sedulous in the inculcation of temperance and in the practice of it should have for so long been regarded by his fellow countrymen as answering to the description of "Drunken Barnaby."

SAFE AIRCRAFT CONTEST.

At a dinner given to leaders in American aviation in New York city several nights ago, Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics, announced a new competition for performance in the air. Unlike other prizes offered for spectacular accomplishment of one sort or another, the award has been offered in the interests of safety. A first prize of $100,000 will be given to the plane which wins the maximum number of points in a series of tests to be conducted during the next two years. Five additional prizes of $10,000 each will be given to the first five planes, in the order of their entry, which succeed in passing the minimum requirement of all tests for safety in maneuverability.

Just as much of the progress made so far in the science of aviation has been spurred on by competition of various sorts, the Guggenheim fund undoubtedly will stimulate the development of safe planes and safe flying. Reports have recently been published of a seaplane so constructed that when the pilot becomes incapacitated an automatic device comes into play which guides the plane safely to the surface of the water and effects a perfect landing. This development constitutes an important step in the creation of the "fool-proof" plane, and the Guggenheim contest undoubtedly will stimulate other similar accomplishments.

The competition also will have a favorable effect on the creation of an air-confident public. With a large number of planes participating in tests to prove their safety and reliability, their performances duly chronicled in the daily press, the public unconsciously will absorb a spirit of confidence. Eventually this upbuilding of public confidence alone will be worth many times the value of the prizes. The safe aircraft competition bids fair to be the most significant and valuable contest ever entered into by American aviation interests.

PECULIAR CASE OF PEROVICH.

The United States Supreme Court today will take up for hearing one of the most remarkable cases ever submitted to that tribunal. The court is requested to decide as to the power of the President to commute the death sentence of a convict without that convict's consent. In 1905, one Vuco Perovich, now a barber in Rochester, N. Y., was convicted of murder in Alaska. On a writ of error to the Supreme Court the judgment was affirmed two years later, and between the date of that affirmation and June, 1909, several applications were made in his behalf asking that sentence be commuted. In June of that year, President Wilson commuted the sentence to imprisonment for life, the sentence to be served "in a penitentiary to be designated by the Attorney General."

Perovich was first confined at McNeill Island penitentiary, and later was transferred to Leavenworth. Nine years ago he made an application for pardon. Then, in 1925, he applied to the United States district court in Kansas for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that he had been illegally removed from the jail in Fairbanks, Alaska, to the penitentiary at McNeill island, and that his removal to Leavenworth prison was without legal authority.

The district court in Kansas granted the writ of habeas corpus, and in releasing him held that the order of the President, in changing the nature of the petitioner's punishment from death to life imprisonment was without authority of law, and also that Perovich never accepted the commutation from death to imprisonment for life.

On account of these issues the circuit court of appeals for the Eighth circuit, to which the Department of Justice had appealed, instead of passing upon the appeal submitted to the United States Supreme Court the following questions:

1. Did the President have authority to commute the sentence of Perovich from death to life imprisonment? If the answer to question 1 is in the negative, then we ask: 2. Can the document above set forth, signed by the President, be legally considered a conditional pardon? If the answer to question 2 is in the affirmative, then we ask: 3. Was express acceptance by Perovich of the conditional pardon necessary to its validity?

The United States Attorney General, in the brief submitted, suggests that: "The questions presented are whether the President may, without the consent of the convict, who had been sentenced to death, change his sentence to life imprisonment; and, if not, whether consent must be expressed by the prisoner at the time of commutation, or whether it may be presumed or implied from a failure to object at the time, or through long service of the life sentence."

In the meantime, Perovich is reported to be engaged in running a barber shop in Rochester, N. Y.

Waterbury Republican: It would be nice, of course, if a revolution could be conducted in an entirely orderly manner, with grandstand seats and pink lemonade for foreign noncombatants, but it seems hardly possible at the present stage of evolution of the human race. Another Prop Knocked Out.

Brooklyn Citizen: The claim is made in Boston that the "Tales of Mother Goose" was written by Elizabeth Foster Vergoose, ancestor in direct line of Mary Eliot, in 1692. President Eliot of Harvard claimed descent from the old lady with much pride. Mary Eliot felt no less a pride in her ancestor, whose grave is in the Old Granary burying ground. The possessions of Mother Goose's alleged author of the nursery rhymes will go under the hammer on Thursday. This will be news to students of literature throughout the world, especially to the French. The original "Contes de la Mere Oie," which is the French name for the tales of Mother Goose, was written by Charles Perrault, a Frenchman, in the early part of the seventeenth century. What the Boston lady did was merely to translate them into English, as they have been translated into every language under the sun.

The Garrulous Man

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AMONG the ancient philosophers were a few who lacked the ability to make their meaning clear to people who were not philosophers.

Recently a man who has made philosophy a life study wrote a book about these old fellows, and the magic of his pen made their intricate and tortuous reasoning clear to everybody.

Do you think this modern, burdened with learning, talks over the heads of his acquaintances? He doesn't. At lunch with a friend he chats idly of trivial things, as other people do.

If you read the work of a man who drags in Latin phrases, are you awed by his learning? You need not be. These few phrases are his entire store. If he knew much Latin he would not parade it before people ignorant of Latin.

And the French phrases dragged in by the ears to adorn the conversation of the hostess? They are all she knows of French, and she is showing off in a desperate attempt to impress you.

If there are five men in a group of idlers at a club, and one knows Shakespeare as he knows the multiplication table, is it he that sprinkles the conversation with quotations from the great one? No; the one who thus airs his culture has recently memorized the quotations from a book that was advertised to make him a social success in six weeks.

In the ordinary social life of ordinary people, there are few occasions to exhibit evidence of what is called culture without seeming to "hold forth"—that is, without making an ass of yourself.

Those who make occasion to show off invariably are people who feel inferior, and are eager to exhibit their little stock of learning to keep others from thinking them as inferior as they feel.

Don't be awed by the chap who breaks into the conversation to tell everybody what royal person was beheaded in England. He knows a number of things like that, but he doesn't possess degrees from seven universities.

Only the man who recently quit stealing feels an urge to boast of his honor.

Old John L. Sullivan was a pretty good fighter, but he didn't know how to hug for 30 rounds.

There are many kinds of people. Judge an artist's merit by the audience he labors for. It is bad art, for example, to write deep philosophy for children.

A WOLF-CHILD.

When I went to Agra, U. P., India, in 1891, writes the Rev. W. McLean in the London Times, there was a wolf-boy in the C. M. S. orphanage, Secundra, whose story is as follows: Early in 1867 a number of men were on a shooting expedition in the unfrequented jungles of Bulandshahr, and surprised a stray wolf, which they followed to a dwarfed hillock. Out of this hillock rose a rock, and on this rock, evidently enjoying the sun, sat a dark, curious-looking object, which, to their utter astonishment, turned out to be a human being, who, on seeing the hunters approach, sprang from its eminence, and, running on all fours, entered a cave along with the startled wolf.

Unable, or afraid, to unearth the strange object, but feeling that something should be done in that direction, the natives communicated with the magistrate of Bulandshahr, who advised them to kindle a fire at the mouth of the den and smoke the curious "find" from its hiding place. This was done, and done so successfully that the creature, preceded by the wolf, rushed out, and after a short struggle, during which several were bitten, was captured. He was then about seven or eight years of age, and was sent by the magistrate to the orphanage at Secundra, near Agra, and as the day when he was captured happened to be a Saturday, he was named "Sanichar" when he was baptized some considerable time afterward. "Sanichar" is Hindustani for Saturday.

For some time after he entered the orphanage, all attempts to get him to conduct himself as a human being failed. He persisted in eating his food from the ground, and gnawing the flesh from bones with his teeth, like a carnivorous animal, and the clothes with which he was supplied he tore into shreds. By and by, however, he grew docile, and conformed to his new surroundings. His head was small, his brow low and contracted, while his eyes, in proportion to his head and face, were large and of a greyish color, restless and squinting. On his face were one or two large cicatrices, marks, no doubt, of what had been severe bites. When walking, he lifted his feet like one going through wet grass, and when he moved along the whole muscles of his body seemed to be undergoing a whole series of jerks. Although he could not say much, he could make himself understood and his wants known.

He lived in the orphanage for some 30 years, and then had a very bad attack of fever, from which he died. I visited him before he died.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Thinks "Congress" Means "Action."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Apropos of the President's objection to calling a session of Congress—

"And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry
And lose the name of action."

C. A. BLOOMFIELD.

The Children's Bureau.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Daughters of 1812 strike the right note when they charge the children's bureau of the Department of Labor with being a socialistic school. We claim to be afraid of socialism and have attempted to clamp down the immigration bars against socialistic advocates, yet have maintained at government expense a bureau teaching the pernicious doctrine. There is not now, and never has been any need of the children's bureau. Let an end be put to it.

MRS. L. M. SCUDDERY.

Your Neighbor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There was a time when you could go to a citizen in your community and if he knew you somewhat he'd gladly indorse your certificate paper or whatever it was that you placed before him for an indorsement as to good character, &c.

Today your citizen neighbor is educated. He sits on a soft-cushioned mahogany chair and before he condescends to consider you, he wants to know if your parents came over on the Mayflower, the size of your shoes, what church you attend and proof that your lodge dues are all paid up.

Yes, sir, your citizen neighbor does things today in a scientific and systematic manner. PHILIP EBERT.

Doesn't Believe Calles.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Calles would have the world believe his statement that the Catholic Church was the instigator of the terrible massacre of passengers on the Guadalajara-Mexico City train a few days ago. Eyewitnesses testified to the effect that a priest rode around in an automobile, directing the work of pillage as he circled the burning train.

Is it possible that Calles is making this accusation to sway public opinion to his side? Could Calles have caused this terrible thing to happen? Is he not powerful enough in his country to cause anything similar to happen?

I am not a Catholic. In fact, I am "on the other side," but I do know Mexico, Calles and some of the things that he has caused to happen. So I, personally, could not put anything past him.

The news dispatches from Mexico City state that a censorship on telegraphic messages from Mexico has begun. This news is important and presages something of unusual seriousness. Perhaps Calles, now that he has blamed the Catholics, fears that they will apprise the outside and waiting world with the truth. Maybe he fears that the few American news correspondents in Mexico City will bring to light something of the true situation. I know that they are eagerly keeping their noses to the ground, and I feel that they don't quite believe the Calles statement.

Maybe within a few weeks word will sift out of Mexico that a real revolt is in progress.

Ojala! THOMAS M'VITY.

From our regular makers we have chosen quality merchandise that conforms to the demands of style-rightness : : : and we've bought this merchandise at very special price concessions which we are passing on to you in the way of possible savings during this semi-annual event. There are some opportunities which a Man can ill afford to overlook---this is one of them. And the Men who come in earliest will enjoy the fullest selection.

We've already announced our regular stock of summer suits similar to these, at prices much higher, so you may readily see the savings.

White Flannel Trousers, Special, $7.75

From all indications more Men are going to wear white flannels this summer than ever before. Those Men who buy them here during Men's Week will save greatly.

"Men's Week" wouldn't be "Men's Week" if we didn't have a fine assortment of White Flannel Trousers to offer, but this selection is superior to any of the earlier ones—superior in grade of flannel, superior in tailoring and superior in style-rightness. Waist sizes 29 to 44.

MEN'S CLOTHES SECTION, SECOND FLOOR.

Street and Sports Oxfords, Special, $6.45, $9.45

Two price groups but four different models are included---one at the lower price and three at the higher. Each model in regular stock is marked far more.

At $6.45—a smartly designed oxford in black or tan calfskin with kid quarter lining, oak leather sole, rubber heel. At $9.45—"The Tech," a new last in tan Scotch grain or black and tan calfskin; "The Belmont" and "The Half-Back" in tan or black calfskin; leather soles and rubber heels.

MEN'S SHOE SECTION, SECOND FLOOR.

White English Broadcloth Shirts, $1.95

Somehow we never seem able to stock sufficient quantities of these specially priced, high-grade shirts to last throughout the sale. The only sure way to avoid disappointment is to make your selection early.

It doesn't really matter whether you wear a neckband or a collar-attached style, for both these models are offered for your selection, full cut and nicely tailored from lustrous English broadcloth. But, we can't emphasize too strongly the need of an early purchasing.

RIGHT TO BE HANGED ARGUED IN COURT TODAY

Government Fights Refusal of Man to Accept Pardon by President.

PEROVICH IS NOW FREE

(By the Associated Press.)

The question of whether a man sentenced to death for murder can refuse a presidential pardon or commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment will be brought before the Supreme Court today, when the Department of Justice will argue that Vuco Perovich, sentenced to death for murder in Alaska 22 years ago, had no right to obstruct the President's pardoning power.

Perovich, who has operated a barber shop in Rochester, N. Y., since his release from the Leavenworth penitentiary last year, obtained freedom on a writ of habeas corpus in the Kansas Federal court on the contention that the President had no authority to change his sentence from death to life imprisonment, and that Perovich had never accepted commutation.

"The rule that a convict may reject an absolute pardon places too much emphasis on his personal choice and not enough on the paramount public interest involved," the Department of Justice argues. "The idea that a convict sentenced to death may insist on execution and that the executive acting in the public interest may not pardon without the prisoner's consent, or that a convict sentenced to life imprisonment has the right to insist on staying in prison and refuse a discharge by absolute pardon but may be forced out of prison by commutation seems without support in reason."

The case comes before the Supreme Court on submission by the circuit court of appeals for the eighth circuit. The issues are whether the President had authority to commute the sentence; if not, whether the pardon could be considered a conditional pardon, and if so whether express acceptance by Perovich was necessary to its validity.

COOLIDGE WILL SPEAK OVER RADIO TOMORROW

Largest Hook-Up Sought for Address to Pan-American Conference.

PROGRAM BY WHISTLER

The address to be given by President Coolidge at the auditorium tomorrow night at the joint session of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the third Pan-American commercial conference will be widely broadcast. Radio stations all over the country have been requested to come in, as an effort is being made to obtain the longest hook-up yet established.

The program, which will be from 9 to 10 o'clock, will include musical and other features. There will be a concert by the United States Army band, Capt. William J. Stannard, leader, one of the numbers to be played being the "Salute to the Flags," composed of strains from the national airs of the 21 American republics. As the anthem of each country is played in alphabetical order, the flag of that nation will be raised. President Coolidge will be introduced by John W. O'Leary, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The opening session of the Pan-American commercial conference this morning will be broadcast through the United States navy station, NAA, beginning at 10:15 o'clock. The addresses of welcome will be by Secretary of State Kellogg and the Minister of Colombia, Dr. Enrique Olaya, vice chairman of the governing board of the Pan-American union. Secretary of Commerce Hoover may also address this session, if by that time he has returned from Mississippi.

Margaret McKee, the whistler, from California, will be the featured artist on Roxy's program tonight at 6:30 o'clock. Miss McKee has whistled herself into popularity in all lands and in all languages. She is a girl in her twenties, who was born with an innate love of nature, especially of bird life. As a child, she imitated the notes of birds and soon became so proficient as to attract notice. It is said she would go out alone to the woods and fields for hours and listen to the notes and songs of her feathered friends, returning home with their calls and songs in absolute imitation. She wove many of these songs into melodies that could be played on musical instruments and even orchestrated.

She now includes in her list of imitations among others, the English skylark, the nightingale, the American robin, thrush, song sparrow, wild canary, red-winged blackbird, cardinal, meadow lark, canary and the mocking bird.

The full Roxy company, which consists of the 110-piece symphony orchestra, the studio string ensemble, the 100-voice massed chorus augmented by the cathedral chimes and two pipe organs, will be heard.

A radio version of Rossini's opera, "The Barber of Seville," will be presenetd by the National Grand Opear company, directed by Cesare Sodero, at 9 o'clock. This opera is one of the old-timers, having first been produced in Rome in 1816. It has been sung by such famous operatic soloists as Patti, Melba, Tetrazzini and Galli-Curci. Rossini is said to have written it in the remarkably short time of two weeks.

Frederic William Wile will tell of plans for the national war memorial at 6:20 o'clock. The Harvesters will take listeners for a pilgrimage through Russia, and this will be followed by a typical concert by the Gypsies.

Other features on the program will be the Hofbrau and Waldorf-Astoria orchestras, Gaiety Male Trio, George F. Ross, pianist, and Rolfe's Palais d'Or orchestra from New York.

Of very special interest to Washingtonians will be the fact that Admiral Dewey will be the principal about whom the half-hour period of "The Great Moments in History" will be woven by stations WEAF and WLIT at 7 o'clock tonight.

Jerome Kern, the light opera composer, will be present personally to direct the presentation of a complete program made up exclusively of his own compositions, to be given in the light opera hour to be broadcast by WJZ and WBZ-WBZA, and KDKA at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Among his productions are "Very Good, Eddie," "Have a Heart," "Oh, Boy" and "Leave It to Jane."

Nearly all the song hits of George M. Cohan will be offered before the microphone of WABC tonight at 9 o'clock. Beginning way back with "I Think I Better Telegraph My Baby," which was a song hit many years before George M. Cohan startled Broadway with his whirlwind show success "Little Johnny Jones," and coming on down the line to his latest Cohanesque creation, a pleasant time is in store for all.

Many a man and woman otherwise attractive loses out because of epithelial debris (loose dandruff).

Don't permit this disgusting condition. Whip it as thousands have done with Listerine, the safe antiseptic. There is no question of its efficiency.

You simply douse it on the scalp full strength and massage thoroughly with the finger tips. Keep it up religiously for a few days and in stubborn cases longer. Results will delight you. Get it today. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

The Packard Eight provides the height of travel luxury

THE whole world can offer nothing finer in transportation than the Packard Eight. This great car, introduced four years ago, has been gradually improved and refined until today it stands without a peer among motor vehicles.

These are strong statements from a conservative company. They are meant literally and but reflect the opinions of Packard Eight owners — the most experienced and critical clientele in the world.

Ask the Man Who Owns One. We will gladly provide you with a list of Packard Eight owners. Any one of them will tell you enthusiastically that he never knew the supreme height of travel luxury until he drove the Packard Eight.

You can appreciate its smartness and beauty at a glance. But you must drive it to know the ease with which it is controlled, the mastery of the road given by its more than 100 horsepower, the ease and comfort of the 143-inch wheelbase, the luxury of its roomy interior. And you must own it to learn the long life, the low depreciation, the infrequent service, which result from simplicity of design and the finest of precision manufacture.

We would like you to become acquainted with the Packard Eight — drive it over any route you choose — all day if you wish — compare it with any car you have ever driven. A phone call will bring any model to your door.

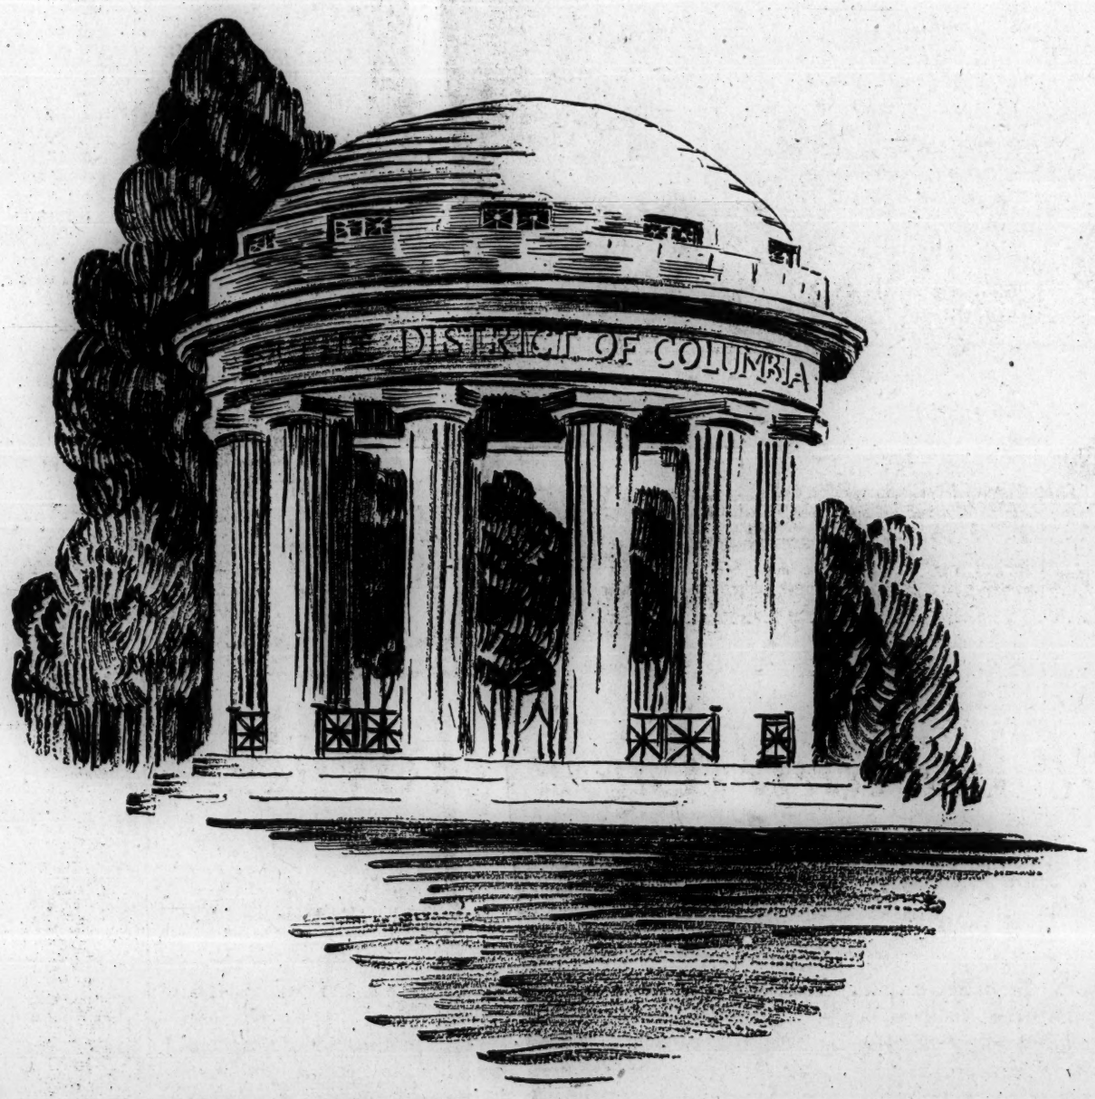

Right now early deliveries are possible.

PACKARD

Let's Go "Over the Top" ~ Now ~ For Those ~ Who Went Over For Us ~ Then.

The Proposition in a Nutshell

To erect the beautiful Memorial which you see pictured at the left as a lasting testimonial of our love and gratitude to those sons and daughters of the District of Columbia who died in the service of their country in the great war. It was in our most dearly-bought victory of all time that 535 of the District's men and women died. The names of these who never returned would be inscribed in the marble ceiling of this beautifully simple and symbolic Doric Temple, and within its corner-stone would be placed the names of all who patriotically and unselfishly answered the nation's Call to Arms.

Washington Is the Only City That Has Not Erected a Memorial to Her Defenders

Of all the leading cities of the United States, Washington alone has failed to erect a suitable memorial to those who served. We were not slackers in war. Shall we be slackers in peace?

LET'S GO OVER THE TOP!—NOW.

This Memorial Will Testify the Capital's Love for Her Defenders

IT MUST BE BUILT BY PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION—WILL YOU HELP?

Many of our Men and Women gave their lives—and every one in the service made tremendous sacrifices in personal comforts, in home life, in worldly goods. Will YOU not now give a little of your plenty toward the erection of this noble and patriotic Shrine, in their memories. We want every one to help. And we are asking for gifts of $1, $2, $5, $10 or as much as you care to contribute—but we want every citizen to answer this call. Your subscription may be paid in full, immediately, or if more convenient may be spread over a period of three years.

Congress authorized the Memorial Commission, which has created plans for this Temple, to be placed on the site chosen by the Fine Arts Commission. It is to rest in a grove of beautiful trees, close by the Lincoln Memorial's reflecting pool, and is to be built wholly of white marble. After making his contribution President Coolidge said: "This is an exceedingly worthy proposal, not only because it is a fitting testimonial of the admiration which is held for those who made this great sacrifice, but also on account of the appropriate and beautiful Memorial which it is proposed to erect."

The Coupon Opposite---

Is ready and waiting to be sent in with your subscription, which may be inclosed in full or spread over three years, according to your own wish. Just a single dollar will pay for a half hour of the stonemason's time, so give—and give just as generously as you can—but be sure to give your something NOW.

Rival Relays Show West Supreme

Times at Drake Event Better Than at Penn Games.

Western Athletes Had the Advantage of Perfect Weather.

NEW YORK, May 1 (By A. P.).—Returns from two huge carnivals involving more than 6,000 athletes today enabled the West to claim supremacy on track and field.

A list of comparative performances made in the Drake and Penn relays showed the Western classic piled up by far the more impressive total, while many of the laurels at stake at Philadelphia went to invaders from the West.

Perfect record-breaking weather favored the Drake meet at Des Moines, Iowa, where 2,800 athletes were assembled, while the 3,200 at Philadelphia competed under less favorable circumstances, with rain slowing the track on the second day.

Considering the cold testimony of times and distances, however, the Drake meet led in the intercollegiate 1, 2 and 4 mile relays, 100-yard dash, 2-mile run, 120-yard high hurdles, running broad jump, discus, shot put and javelin.

Penn contestants chalked up better marks in the 440 and 880 ard relays, pole vault and hammer threw and tied in the running high jump.

The West proved superior too in the decathlon at Philadelphia as Vernon Kennedy, of Missouri State Teachers' college, won a sweeping victory with a record total of points. Another feature of the Eastern meet was the international triumph of the Cambridge hurdlers, led by Lord David Burghley, in the 440-yard shuttle relay event.

Schoolboy runners scored one triumph

Wagner Wins German Heavyweight Honors

Dortmund, Ger., May 1 (By A. P.).—Rudi Wagner tonight knocked out Hans Breitenstraeter in the second round of a fast fight, thereby becoming the German heavyweight champion. The end came when Wagner landed a right hook on Breitenstraeter's jaw. Wagner was the aggressor from the start, with both rights and lefts, and he continued his savage attack until the knockout. His weight was given as 162 pounds.

Pimlico Meet Opens Today With $25,000 Feature Race

Select Group to Face Barrier in Dixie Handicap; Ashburton Purse to Attract Smart Field of Preakness Aspirants.

BALTIMORE, May 1 (By A. P.).—Maryland's spring racing season approaches its climax with the opening of a 12-day meet at Pimlico tomorrow. The $25,000 Dixie handicap features the initial card, while May 9 will see the running of the Preakness, Old Hilltop's $50,000 stake for 3-year-olds.

The Dixie, for 3-year-olds and up, at a mile and three-sixteenths, has drawn sixteen entries. Mars, a Walter M. Jeffords entry, appears likely to be made the favorite.

The son of Man o' War is coupled with Edith Cavell. E. F. Whitney's Joy Smoke, J. E. Griffith's Single Foot, and Sarazen, of the Fair stable, also are prominent contenders.

Sarazan, assigned top weight of 127 pounds, will go to the post seeking a third consecutive victory. The famous son of High Time, Rush Box, beat the pack to the wire in 1925 and 1926, both times under a heavier impost. Dangerous and Edisto present a formidable pair from the Seagram stables.

Considerable interest also attaches to the Ashburton purse, which will bring out several leading Preakness candidates, including Scapa Flow, Whiskery, Philotta and Jock.

A bright sun and brisk wind today did much to repair the damage done by week-end rains, and a fast track is in prospect.

D. C. COLLEGES FACE BUSY WEEK

Maryland Entertains in Lacrosse and Baseball Today.

ALTHOUGH Georgetown and Catholic University baseball teams, with only one game booked this week, fe a let-up in the strenuous schedules they have been playing the last ten days or more, other college teams, particularly Maryland, have heavy schedules, making the week one of the busiest of the season.

Maryland holds the spotlight throughout the week, with games either in baseball, tennis or lacrosse scheduled on every day except Wednesday and Friday, with the week topped off on Saturday with its baseball, lacrosse and tennis all swinging into action.

The Old Liners start today with a baseball game against Duke University and a lacrosse match with Syracuse,

Yankees Beat Macks and Take Lead

Two Homers by Ruth Help in 7-3 Win. 60,000 at Game.

Pennock Shows Real Form; Gehrig Also Knocks Homer.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 1.—That was a rare game up at the Yankee stadium today, where the Yankees and Cornelius McGillicuddy's Phila antiques battled for the leadership of the pennant race before a happy crowd of 65,000 fans. The first and most striking feature was that the Yankees made only five hits to the A's twelve, and won by a score of 7 to 3.

The answer is that three of the five Yankee hits were home runs. Babe Ruth hit two. Lou Gehrig hit one. Between them they drove in five runs, because there was a man on first when Babe socked his first one, and there was also a man on base when Lou poked his.

Quinn had pitched a splendid game and but for those two home runs he would have had a no-hit game in his grasp and his team would have been ahead 3 to 0.

But Quinn was not taken out because he was being hit. He left voluntarily because he had a kink in his pitching arm. It was there when he pulled on his uniform, but he had worked it away while warming up and might have finished the game if it had not come back along about the sixth inning. So he thought he had better go.

Herb Pennock was pitching for the Yankees. It was his first appearance since he hurt his foot in Philly two weeks ago. He was not wild but he was not so effective as he usually is and he had to bear the brunt of some funny baseball.

Williams Wins Chevy Chase Honors

He and Washburn Defeat Alonso-Hardy in Net Doubles.

Takes Singles Final by Downing Alonso, 8—6, 6—4.

R. NORRIS WILLIAMS and Watson Washburn defeated Manuel Alonso and Samuel Hardy 6—2, 5—7, 6—2, 4—6, 7—5 in the final doubles match of the Chevy Chase invitation tournament yesterday afternoon in an interesting and thrilling match.

Following this match Alonso bowed to Williams in straight sets, 8—6 and 6—4, in the final of the singles matches.

It was the steady and brilliant court play of the Davis cup team captain that was the big factor in the triumph of both matches. On several occasions Alonso and his partner flashed some exceptionally brilliant smashing and backhand driving, but the eversteady and smooth court game of the Williams-Washburn combination could not be denied.

With the score of games 5 to 2 against them, Alonso and Hardy came forward with a rush, bringing the score to deuce at 5 all. The eventual winners answered their opponents' rally with a smashing net attack, climaxing the deciding game with a long exchange of volleys and drives that thrilled the huge gallery of tennis enthusiasts.

The final singles match, bringing together Alonso and Williams, two ranking American tennis stars, proved the outstanding court duel of the day. Alonso, obviously tired from his strenuous play in the doubles, gave Williams a great battle before losing the first set, 8—6, but was easy for the Davis cup player in the succeeding set.

In the morning's singles matches, Williams defeated Emmet Pare, of Georgetown university, 6—2, 6—3, and Alonso won from Washburn 6—0, 6—3 in the semifinals.

Nats May Get Providence Catcher for Tucker or West

Deal for Cronin, Star Young Receiver, May Be Closed Today; Yankees Here This Afternoon; Coveleskie and Hoyt to Pitch.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

J. H. BRONSON, representing the Providence club of the Eastern league, is in town for a conference with President Clark Griffith and, before leaving tonight, hopes to conditionally close a deal whereby the Nationals land Catcher Jack Cronin and get the option of another Providence player in exchange for either Outfielder Sammy West or Ollie Tucker.

Cronin is a youngster 22 years of ago, who is setting the Eastern circuit on fire with his brilliant work. He is a pepper box behind the bat, is a great pegger to bases, is fast, and a hard and timely hitter. Several good offers have been refused for the receiver and, but for the fact that all three of the Providence regular flyhawks are incapacitated, Bronson states that the club would not consider letting him go.

He is offered to the Harrismen because it is known that the Nats are trying to bolster their catching staff and Bronson, who watched both West and Tucker perform in Tampa this spring, realizes that the bait will have to be most appetizing before President Griffith will nibble at any offer in-

HARPS BLANK EASTPORT NINE

Frager, Sams Pitch Well in Turning in 4-to-0 Victory.

THE Shamrocks invaded Eastport, Md., yesterday and defeated the baseball prides of that locality, 4 to 0, in a well-played game. As the score would indicate, the game developed into a pitcher's battle with base hits few and far between.

The hard-hitting Shamrock batsmen displayed great patience in "waiting out" the offerings of Uncilton, but their team was benefited greatly by this willing restraint.

The erratic, though hospitable pitcher granted four bases on balls, intermingled with a pair of timely hits, that gave the Harps a 3-run lead. The dependable Catlin, ambidextrous twirler of the home nine, answered the alarm and succeeded in quelling the invaders' rampage.

In Frager and Sams, the Shamrocks presented a pair of hurlers who vied with each other with their splendid twirling performances. Both were well nigh invincible. Jones, of Eastport, led the batters of both teams with two hits.

Chisox Beat Browns, 7-6; Take 6th in Row

Chicago, May 1 (By A. P.).—The Chicago White Sox ran their winning streak to six games today, their highest total in many years by defeating St. Louis, 7 to 6, in a hectic contest. Pitchers came and went with great regularity, but Thomas finally managed to stop St. Louis just short of victory. Bud Clancy delivered the winning single with Falk on second from a single and a sacrifice.

Howard Boyd Captains 1927 G. U. Prep Eleven

Howard Boyd, of Washington, was elected captain of the 1927 Georgetown Preparatory school eleven at a recent meeting of the lettermen of last year's team. Boyd is an end and is one of the few linemen to be available in the fall. The Prep backfield will be intact, however.

Robert Rothert was elected manager of the football team.

Tolson, D. C. Youth, Hits Homer With 3 on in 7th.

CHICAGO, May 1 (By A. P.).—Charley Root blew up in the ninth inning, and after walking three men was touched for a hit which sent two runs across the plate, giving Pittsburgh a 7-to-6 victory over Chicago. The Cubs came from behind, overcoming the visitors' lead with the aid of home runs by Jack Wilson and Charley Tolson, the latter bagging his with the bases filled in the seventh inning. A crowd of about 35,000 was present.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 1 (By A. P.).—Brooklyn overtook the Giants in the ninth with a two-run rally today to win its third consecutive game by 4 to 3. A fly to short center by Pinch Hitter Jacobson allowed Carey to come home from third with the winning run. It was Dazzy Vance's first victory in the present campaign. Detroit, May 1 (By A. P.).—Earl Whitehill, backed by perfect support, shut out Cleveland today, and Detroit took the closing game of the series, 7 to 0. Benny Karr started in the box for Cleveland, and for five innings he and Whitehill staged a spectacular pitchers' battle. When the sixth inning opened the Tigers held a one-run lead, then proceeded to clinch the game with five additional tallies.

Lone Runner Reaches Third on Lisenbee in Game.

Goslin Steals Home; Bluege and Judge Hit Hard.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH,
Sports Editor, The Post.

THE Boston Red Sox were a docile crew yesterday, and, with Horace Lisenbee pitching and Leon Goslin batting, the Washington baseball team overcame the passive resistance of the Boston players and won the ball game, 6 to 0.

Ten thousand persons watched the winners win the game in the first inning and the losers lose the contest in the same inning.

Jack Russell, one of Manager Carrigan's young pitchers, was pitching for Boston at the time and misjudged Goslin. He committed the error of pitching an inside ball as his first offering, and the big black bat that Goslin is swinging these days intercepted the pitch and drove it beyond the reaches of the 60-foot right-field fence and out of the confines of the park.

Two were out when Russell pitched to Goslin, but Tris Speaker was resting on first base as the result of his single. The two runs that Washington scored on Goslin's blast proved enough to win the ball game.

Goslin was in a clouting mood yesterday, and when he didn't pop up to the infielders he sent the outfielders back to the fence. He crashed a two-base hit to the right-field barrier in the fifth inning that was a harder hit ball than was his home run. He stole home in the fifth inning on the scoring end of a double steal.

Young Lisenbee, who pitched for Washington and who seems to be the only one of Buck Harris' young pitchers able to win a game in the American league, subdued the Red Sox with seven hits. Lisenbee has been ailing since the start of the season, but he pitched like a healthy young man yesterday. He allowed one Boston player to reach third base, however.

Lisenbee was the picture of confidence in facing Boston yesterday. He pitched with a deliberate motion that mowed the Sox down in order for the greater part of the game, and the few times that he was forced to bear down he was a puzzle. A fast double play, Harris to Myer to Judge, helped Lisenbee over a rough spot in the third inning, but thereafter he was complete master of the opposition.

Manager Carrigan allowed Russell to suffer for two innings before humanely removing him for Pitcher Delmar Lundgren, a tall blond, for whom the Washington players showed only a little less preference. Washington scored two perfunctory runs off Lundgren on four hits.

Helping Goslin to maintain the team's offensive pace were Oswald Bluege and Joseph Judge, whose hitting during the past week has had much to do with the successive defeats of the Washington club.

Bluege hit the ball hard to make a

McALEER WINS TOWN, COUNTRY MEDAL TIE PLAY-OFF

G. U. Golfer Loses By 2 Strokes

12-Man Team Match at Bannockburn Postponed.

Dr. Webb and Son Win Father-Son Event at Washington C. C.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

INDIFFERENT golf, so far as low scoring is concerned, marked the play-off at the Town and Country club yesterday between Maurice J. McCarthy, Georgetown U. student from Flatbush, L. I., and Earl McAleer, Manor, who tried for low-medal score in the qualifying round of the club tournament with cards of 75 each. The winner in the play-off was McAleer, 44—41—85, leading his competitor two strokes in the eighteen-hole round, McCarthy scoring 45—42—87.

Although McCarthy drove a longer ball than McAleer he lost on his approach shots and his putts.

The cards:

Out—
McCarthy .... 4 5 5 5 6 6 4 5 5—45
McAleer .... 4 5 6 5 4 6 5 4 5—44
In—
McCarthy .... 5 5 4 5 3 7 4 4 5—42—87
McAleer .... 4 6 4 4 4 7 4 3 5—41—85

The team match of 48 players, scheduled for the Bannockburn club yesterday, with twelve players on each team, failed to materialize owing to the fact that all the contestants could not be assembled. It was, therefore, decided to allow the competitors on the various teams to play next Sunday and the following Sunday, with the understanding that only the scores played on those two days should count. The team with the lowest number of strokes, medal play, for the twelve players in its personnel, will win the prize.

The rainstorm on Saturday interfered with the program of the qualifying rounds at the Argyle club for positions on the club team, the announcement of the golf committee calling for 36 holes, medal play. As a consequence only eighteen holes were played by the club members yesterday and the remaining holes will be played next Saturday or Sunday. The twelve leading players yesterday were as follows:

In the spring sweepstakes tournament at the Bannockburn club, which ends next Saturday, William L. Pendergast, club champion, is in the lead with cards of 79 and 80.

Pairings for the first round of match play in the French high commission cup competition for men at the Chevy Chase club, which begins next Thursday, are as follows:

C. G. Treat, 9, vs. J. P. Lannon, 14; P. S. Ridsdale, 9, vs. John Britton, 8; Dr. W. R. Mason, 8, vs. H. L. Rice, 14; F. P. Reeside, 7, vs. L. B. Platt, 12.

The May day tournament at the Indian Spring club yesterday, match play against par, handicap allowance, was won by Norman B. Frost, who, with a handicap of 10, was 3 up on par. The runner-up was Reid W. Diggs, who was 2 up on par with a handicap of 12.

Frost experienced the thrill that comes once in a lifetime while playing his round. On the fourteenth, 150 yards, he took his trusty mashie and holed out for a 1, the ball striking the green a few feet from the cup and then disappearing amid shouts of glee from all concerned.

The father-and-son tournament at the Washington Golf and Country club ended yesterday in a 3-to-2 win for Dr. Thomas D. Webb and Thomas D. Webb, jr. Their opponents were Dr. Thomas J. Rice and Thomas J. Rice, jr. The feature of the match was the fine playing of young Tommy Webb, who, although only 14 years old, handled his clubs like a veteran and contributed materially to the victory.

Entries close this afternoon for the spring tournament of the Washington Golf and Country club, which begins next Wednesday, and it was reported at the club last night that the entry list promises to break all previous records. The field will be divided for qualification, playing eighteen holes on Wednesday or Thursday.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT E. COLLYER

LEXINGTON. The chief of staff at "Hard Bootland" slips me the happy info "Only a gallop for the Idle Hour entry in the Derby trial—fifth on the card." Further information along these lines come to me from another source to the effect "Bradley is mighty sweet on BEWITHUS—and this will be the reliance for the rich Preakness and Derby."

On the other hand, NOR'EASTER will also go well. Tab the ring action closely. LOUISVILLE and NASHVILLE seem best of a very bad lot in the day's opener—with TORCHER next in order.

OH, SUSANNE, which tiptoed her field last time, is again dropped into a nice snug spot in the fourth. She should take this mob and strangle them to death.

CANTERBURY has been working well, as also has SIXTY. The latter may be a trifle better than ordinarily rated.

KIYI is the happy word from the "commission merchants." They tell me Pittsburgh and St. Louis are loaded to the guards.

Over at the old Hilltop course at Pimlico, the stellar attraction is the $25,000 Dixie stakes, over the 1 mile and three-sixteenths journey, for which sixteen well-tried performers are named overnight. Of the lot, I believe MONTFERRAT is nicely weighted and, because of this, I am going to put him in front of SINGLEFOOT and the Seagram entry of DANGEROUS and EDISTO. The latter appears a bit off his best form, hence SARAZEN, if he runs kindly, may spill the frijoles.

AURORA.

Band o' Purple, Monteagle, Prig.
Perfect Model, Clem Lewis, Nevada entry.
Eager, Foreland, Donna Santa.
Jessie Belle, Tormentor, Tanis.
Dorothy Adams, Pompous, Proceeds.
Gay Boy, Miss Lane, Gondolier.
Captain Adams, Black Mask, Clapper.
Best—Jessie Belle.

D. C. HEIGHTS WINS OVER HILLTOPS

Ed Hutchinson Fans 17 in Suburbans 7-6 Victory.

ANY doubt as to the ability of Eddie Hutchinson to make the grade as an unlimited class pitcher was erased yesterday when he fanned seventeen Hilltop batters, the District Heights team winning, 7 to 6. Hutchinson twice fanned the side with the bases loaded.

District Heights was trailing in the fifth inning but opened with a batting rampage that gained the lead. Joseph was the star of the rally, making a triple with the bases loaded.

NATS BATTLE YANKEES TODAY

Tucker or West May Go to Providence for Catcher.

volving either of these two promising young outfielders.

Griffith, it is understood, is interested in the proposition and not only plans to have Scout Jimmy Callahan give Cronin the "once over," but also will go to Providence himself to see how the young backstopper stacks up. Even if the deal is agreed upon today, it will be a tentative one until the Washington club head has time to look into Cronin's qualifications and is satisfied that he comes up to specifications.

If the deal is closed, it is not known whether Tucker or West will be the Nat flyhawk involved. The Providence club is willing to take either, while Manager Harris wants to hang on to both. However, it is believed that the Washington skipper rates Tucker higher than West and, if one must go, it will be the latter.

This deal was broached to Manager Harris in New York last Tuesday, and Owner Powell, of the Providence club, came to the "Big Town" in the hope of finding President Griffith with the team. He was unable to come to Washington himself and Bronson is representing him here.

Babe Ruth and the other members of New York's famous "murderers' row" will be in our midst for four days, beginning this afternoon. Manager Harris is particularly anxious to make a good showing in these games with the Yankees.

Remembering his experiences of last year, when Huggins' team jumped into such an early lead that, despite the fact that it was staggering at the finish, its margin was big enough to carry it over the line in first place, Harris realizes that it is up to the Nats and the other teams to stop the Yanks right now, for already they have got a fast pace.

In the hope of annexing the first game of the set, Stanley Coveleskie, spitballer, will be given the Washington hurling job this afternoon. He probably will be opposed by Waite Hoyt, the singing undertaker, who was beaten by the Harrismen in New York last Monday.

The Yankees are not much better fixed for good pitchers than are the Nats, and most of their victories to date have resulted from the powerful slugging of Koenig, Gehrig, Meusel and Lazerri. This quartet, with Babe Ruth only coming to life occasionally, has been able to pound over enough runs to more than make up for the Yanks' pitching deficiencies.

Coveleskie realizes that he will have a hard job on his hands this afternoon, but states that he is ready for the test. In the only two games in which he has started this season he has been forced to quit because of a sore arm, but treatments and rest apparently have made him fit again.

Walter Johnson is making great progress and should be ready to pitch a game three weeks hence, it was reported at the Georgia Avenue stadium yesterday. This means that when the Yankees are here on Monday, May 23, on a one-day visit, they probably will find the Old Master toeing the slab against them.

While the Nationals were on the recent trip to Boston, New York and Philadelphia, Johnson has been working out daily at the Griffith stadium, and, so fast has he advanced, he took the hill against his mates in the batting drill before yesterday's game and let out a notch for the first time since he was laid low.

Johnson now seems to have gained confidence in the injured leg and is not afraid to put it down firmly, although, of course, he is under orders not to pivot on it. Three weeks more, provided there are no setbacks, should see him using the injured member just as if it were never hurt.

Meanwhile, he will be working his salary wing back to condition. Johnson and some of his mates were surprised yesterday at the stuff the veteran showed. He attempted no curves but had quite a hop on his fast ones. According to the club physician Johnson probably will be ready even before the May 23 date, but the nats will be away on a Western trip, and it hardly would be worth while to send him all the way to Detroit, the last stop in the "wild and woolly," for one game.

A small fire in the lumber yard, just back of the third base stands, caused considerable excitement as the Sox opened the fourth round. It was soon extinguished by Chief Watson's brave fire-fighters. The wind blew considerable smoke over the field, but not enough to stop the game.

Although Horace Lisenbee chalked up his second victory of the year yesterday, he still is enthusing over his performance in New York Monday, when he set three records for himself. On that day he was credited with his first big league win, fanned Babe Ruth, and also was ordered off the bench for the first time in his career, he being one of the seventeen Nats chased by Umpire Owens for acting too "collegiate."

double and a single. Judge obtained two singles.

Speaker reached first base on a single over the pitcher's head in the first inning after the infielders had thrown Harris and Rice out. Goslin's home run, scoring Speaker, was followed by a single by Judge, but Myer brought the rally to an end with a fly to Tobin.

Russell failed to improve in the second inning and Bluege and Ruel found him for singles. Lisenbee advanced both with a sacrifice and Bluege scored on Rice's fly to Flagstead. Harris came through with a lusty double to left field to score Ruel.

With one out in the third inning, Judge singled but Myer and Bluege fouled to Haney. Lundgren walked Rice and Ruel in the next inning but Harris, Speaker and Lisenbee were unable to hit safely.

The Nationals scored a run in the fifth when Goslin led off with his long double to the right field fence and went to third on a wild pitch, which was the fourth ball to Myer. Goslin and Myer executed a double steal. Goslin crashed into Catcher Hartley like an express and the latter dropped Regan's throw.

The Red Sox were having their troubles with Lisenbee meanwhile. Haney singled in the first inning with one out, but advanced no farther than second. Regan singled in the second with two out, but was stranded at first.

Wanninger singled in the third and Haney followed with another single, but trouble was averted when Harris, Myer and Judge turned Tobin's grounder into a double play.

The Sox went hitless in the fourth and fifth.

Two hits and a sacrifice accounted for Washington's last run, in the eighth. Bluege led off with a double to left field, but held second on Ruel's scratch single to Lundgren. Bluege advanced on Lisenbee's sacrifice bunt and scored on Rice's long fly to Jacobson.

Tobin reached third on Lisenbee in the sixth as a result of his single and another by Flagstead with one out, but Jacobson popped to Bluege and Todt filed to Rice. Regan led off in the seventh with a single, but was forced by Lundgren ending the last Boston threat. Lisenbee put the Sox out in order in the last two innings.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Should a Husband Work?

DEAR Miss McDonald:
Being a constant reader of your column and having read where you gave advice to a mother of two children to leave her husband to live with a friend of hers and she keeps her children while she works and have her husband to support his children, I am going to you for advice.

I am married and have a small baby, but my husband does not work half the time. In the winter months he hardly works at all and in summer he doesn't keep a job more than a month at a time, and this means he is looking for work half of the time. Now no one can live when they only work now and then and we are in debt, very deep, and I see no way in which we can get out unless something is done. The people look to me for the money and I would like to go to work but he won't let me. He says I am to stay home and care for my baby, but while he doesn't work and I don't work the bills can not be paid that way. I am not able to pay all the bills myself, as we were in debt before and I worked so hard to get out and here we are deeper than ever. I tried to get him to understand how we stand but he doesn't want to hear anything about it, and thinks he can take my baby from me by having his people go against me. I know he can't take my baby because he can't take care of himself, and how can he take care of a baby? And his people surely can not have him while I live. I do not get any place and when I do he must be with me. We mostly always meet his friends and he thinks that they all adore him (this being among the opposite sex and he being a lady-killer). This is not so bad, for anyone wanting him I'll gladly give him to them. He likes his baby, but when some one tells him what he ought to do he comes home to take it out of the baby and me.

Couldn't I make him pay his bills and to support his baby? I don't know what to do as he thinks the trades people ought to keep him always. They have helped him more than his own people have. I know his people would all turn against me if I leave him. They think it's awful to have anybody's home wrecked. Please help me some way as I would appreciate any advice given. Hoping my letter is not too long and that you can get any meaning out of this, I will close with many thanks. "WORRIED."

If you can arrange for the care of your baby, by all means go to work, as there is no labor that can age a woman as worry and debt. To such a dishonest mortal as your husband of course small matters such as unpaid bills and the contempt of one's neighbors mean nothing. But to one of decent principles these things shorten life. So by all means seek some lucrative work, sewing, caring for children, substituting in homes on the maid days out. There was a dear widow at home who used to do this and the homes where she went just waited for her day to come around and the high frosting chocolate cake she always made. Her daughter is in college now—the curly headed tot who always went along, and who played on all the lawns in town while mother dusted and mended and cooked indoors. Have confidence in your own powers and nothing can stop you in this world. Certainly no lazy, worthless husband ever can. Meanwhile why do you not hale this idler to court? There they will impress upon him the obligations of a husband and father, and he will be given ample opportunity to choose between regular work outside or inside the workhouse. A probation officer will be appointed to act as his fairy godfather and see that should he lose one job another will be at hand. Nothing can be gained by patiently enduring a domesticated hobo. So act. The court will be entirely on your side, you may be sure.

Conduct and Common Sense

MARRIED WOMAN AS BRIDESMAID.

DEAR Madame: Would you please advise me whether one matron of honor is correct at a wedding? In order not to cause hard feelings, I should like to have one bridesmaid and a matron of honor.

A FUTURE BRIDE.

There is no especial reason for following one procedure rather than another in a wedding, as long as you comply with the religious or the legal requirements. You can have a bevy of bridesmaids, if you want them, or a few, or two, or one, or none, and yet be perfectly correct. In your case you want two, a married woman, acting as chief bridesmaid, and another bridesmaid, and it is quite all right for you to have them. Whomever you appoint maid of honor is the person to stand nearest to you at the altar, to take your bouquet while you are having the ring put on, and to straighten your train (if you wear a regulation wedding dress) as you turn to go down the aisle. Your two bridesmaids may walk together, or, if you prefer, they may walk in single file. The most important one usually comes last because she is supposed to be nearest the bride in the procession. But it really doesn't matter. In your place I'd have them walk together and let the one who was to help you stand by you during the ceremony.

You know, do you not, that you come up the aisle with your father, or whomever gives you away, and meet the bridegroom and the best man at the altar? I ask because some young women do not seem to think their families are of any account in the ceremony. They come to church with the groom, the ushers and the bridesmaids all in a bunch and never consider that their fathers and mothers have also a part to play—at least in all well-conducted weddings.

Be sure you do not allow the wedding procession to drag. The slow, step-and-stop mode of progress is most annoying to watch and always seems to me more like a funeral than a wedding. The more simple and natural the proceedings, the smarter they will be.

THE DOUBLE CHIN.

THIS is not a new subject for the column, but it is one upon which I am constantly receiving inquiries. I hope that all those who recently have asked me for advice on this subject will read this article and consider their letters answered. Sometimes, particularly, in a young person, a double chin is a direct result of bad posture. Make an effort, even if it has to be a very conscious one, to carry the head erect and keep the chin in. Never allow the chin to sink forward on the chest while sitting.

Massage is excellent for restoring the contour of the face, and when self-administered is not likely to do the chin any harm, although it might not be best for the whole face. It is well to use a cream, which may be of the reducing type if one wishes. Start at the point of the chin and rub rather vigorously downward toward the base of the neck. Follow this with side strokes from the chin downward toward the base of the neck below the ears. Finish with applications of cold water and vigorous patting with a fairly strong astringent lotion.

There are also certain exercises that are excellent for overcoming a double chin. One consists of tensing the muscles of the neck and then thrusting the chin sharply forward and back. Another helpful exercise can be performed by stretching the head upward as far as it will go; keeping it in this position, bend the whole body from the hips as far downward as possible.

"Lois" wants to know how to treat her double chin and at the same time take on weight in other parts of the body. She describes herself as being "skinny." I should advise her to follow the treatment that I have outlined above. At the same time she can build her weight up to normal by eating nourishing foods, stressing milk, cream, butter, eggs, cheese and whole-grain cereals. At the same time green vegetables and fresh fruits should not be forgotten.

"Anne" also asks for advice on a double chin and wants to know if she is overweight. She is 16 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 114 pounds. I think that she is just right as to weight, and she can overcome the double chin by following the advice that I already have given above.

Nitrogen for Orchard

DEAR JIMMY: When you get down to a really careful analysis of conditions leading to lack of thriftiness in an orchard, such as you described in your letter which reached me yesterday, you frequently find that the trouble lies in an insufficient amount of nitrogen in the soil. This element is one of the most valuable fertilizers that can be applied to apple and peach trees, especially during the spring. Among its benefits are larger fruits, a decrease in the percentage of the crop that falls before maturity, and a greater number of the small spurs of wood which carry the blossoms.

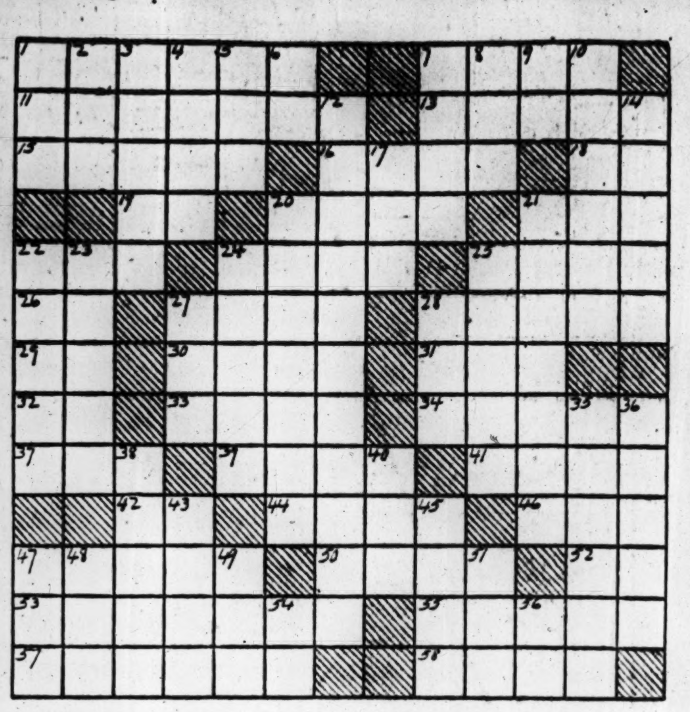

The usual form in which nitrogen is furnished to trees is nitrate of soda. This is scattered over the ground about a week before the buds open and left to be carried into the soil by the rains. The greatest benefit is derived from applications made at a distance from the trunks equal to the branch spread. This is normally the point at which the small feeding roots are most active. Applications close to the trunks of well-established trees do little or no good.

The store where you buy your other garden supplies can probably furnish you with all the nitrate of soda you want, Jimmy. Don't buy more than it won't keep well unless you can provide you can use at one time, though, for tect it from every bit of dampness.

Yours always, GARDNER.

Claribel Writes of the Younger Generation

DEAR EVE: I've never had a bit of patience with the people who say unpleasant things about the younger generation, and just now I feel more strongly than ever about them. I've just been visiting girls' schools with Alice, who wants to send Virginia away in a year or so, and, really, the younger generation, collectively, is the most charming thing I've seen in ages.

I'm sure that Alice finally decided on Miss Masterly's school simply because all the girls looked so nice. I've sketched some of them for you. Don't you agree with me?

The little blonde at the left wore a two-piece dress of white crepe de chine, perfectly simple, but cut with just that degree of ingenuity that takes away the overnaive quality to which the teens so strenuously object. The lines of the narrow inserts on the blouse repeat the V of the smart collarless neck line, but are handled in a way that gives a becoming look of breadth to an immature figure. This, to me, is a very interesting point, for the collarless V is all too likely to turn slimness into thinness! Her flower and the band on her little white felt hat were bright blue.

The brunette in the middle was very gay in a short-sleeved blouse of coral-pink crepe and a white pleated skirt. There is no question about it—short sleeves are certainly coming back for country wear, and I think they are especially charming for young girls. The blouse I have sketched was very youthful, thoroughly appropriate for 14, but its length, the yoke at the neck and hips, and the scalloped and buttoned closing give it a distinct individuality. Furthermore, the child had clothes sense, for, though her mother may have chosen the frock, she herself had placed the belt just about half an inch higher than she would have worn it six months ago!

At the right stands a young teacher just a year out of college, and she was quite as smart as the girls. In coloring she was the average American type, blue eyes, brown hair, fair skin, and for her dress she had chosen one of the most flattering of all combinations, two shades of green. The darker was a very soft moss green; the lighter was quite pale, and the general effect was the most fresh and spring-like thing you could imagine! The dress was two-piece, although it doesn't look it. The blouse was in the darker green, with inserts of the light. The skirt reversed the process. I hope that she had a sweater to match one of the tones in the skirt, so that she could wear it when she wanted to be very sportsmanlike. I am sure, that if I had had teachers who looked like that I should have been much more convinced of the necessity for Latin and geometry and should be a wiser woman now!

Love, CLARIBEL.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A MESSAGE FOR THE SQUEEZED FOOT.

MEN have flat foot, weak foot, or painful foot—meaning about the same—because they wear narrow shoes. This is the opinion of Dr. H. R. Coun, of Akron, Ohio.

Dr. Coun has a remedy, and that makes the lame-but-busy willing to sit up and listen to the story from its beginning.

In walking naturally, the back of the heel is the first part of the foot to touch the ground. As the step progresses, the force of the step is borne by the back of the heel, the heel, the instep and the ball of the foot. Then comes a push-off by the front of the foot, which brings to a close the part played by that foot in that step.

If a foot follows its natural bent the front will "squish out" or spread when the weight falls on it. As this happens the toes try to dig in for the push forward. If the foot is encased in a narrow shoe the ball of the foot can not spread, and the toes can not do their little stunt of grasping the ground, or trying to do so.

A foot that is corseted in at the front so that it can not spread becomes sore. To avoid the soreness and pain the wearer of tight shoes walks with his toes turned out. Coun says: "He walks like a duck." As a swimmer and as a flier, a duck fills the bill, but as a walker he scores low.

The next step after turned out foot is flat foot. To remedy this condition he proceeds as follows: The patient gets a pair of broad, comfortable shoes. They must be broad enough in the front to permit the ball of the foot to spread. He then has that pair of shoes equipped with a rubber heel of a special design. This he calls the extension heel. On the instep side of the foot the heel is prolonged forward as an instep support. It reaches forward to a point midway between the ball of the foot and the back of the heel. This inside prolongation of the heel is one-sixteenth of an inch higher than the outside of the heel. If this is to last any time the heel and its prolongation must be made of durable material. The patient wears this shoe intermittingly for two or three weeks. After that time he will have been trained to it, and he can wear it steadily. What's the principle?

The high ridge on the heel tends to roll the boot outward. This foot is walking on a ridge—not easy to do. To succeed, the front of the foot instinctively turns inward, and the toes try to grab the ground. This is just what Dr. Coun is aiming for. Whenever the front of the foot turns in, the toes try to grab the ground, and the front of the foot spreads when weight is put on it, the factors which make for cure of flat foot are at work.

If the practice is persisted in the painful condition will be overcome.

And that's the story.

SUGARED WATER FOR BABY.

R. T. B. writes: Is 12 ounces of water a day, with a little sugar, harmful to a child 2 months old? This is given 2 ounces at a time after each nursing, which is every four hours.

REPLY.

Probably so. The baby needs the stomach room for milk. But is the baby growing and is he happy? If the answer is yes, keep up the plan. That is a better answer than mine.

LEMON BEFORE RETIRING.

H. B. writes: Has the taking of the juice of a lemon in hot water before retiring any beneficial result, or otherwise?

REPLY.

It is of some value in preventing scurvy. It supplies some alkali to balance the acid ash of meat and bread. It may be slightly laxative.

GOOD WINTER TEMPERATURE.

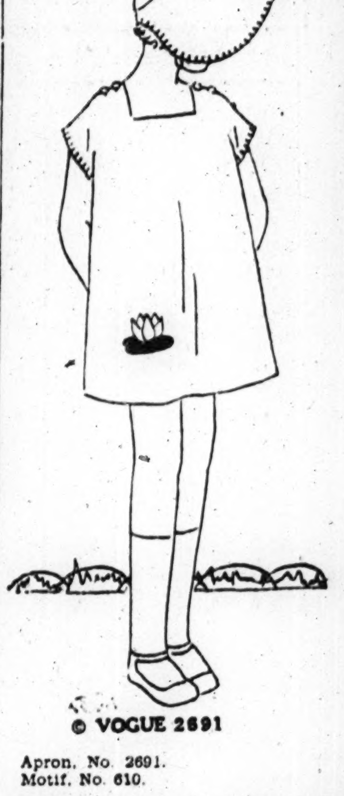

T. A. writes: How warm should a room be heated in the winter time?

REPLY.

An office and a living room should be heated to 68 or even 70. Sixty-five would be better for the health but not for comfort.

If manual labor is done in the room these temperatures would be too high.

Mode for Play

Apron, No. 2691.
Motif, No. 610.

THE apron has spun a cycle of years since it was the garment indispensable in the child's wardrobe. Now, its favor has been revived, and its modern role, though not so versatile as in former times, is one of importance. Very informally, it costumes the child at play and, as in this case, is often made of gingham, button-holed on the sleeve edges, round or square of neckline, and embroidered with a lily of the pond motif No. 610. Designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years.

On Setter Dogs

By ROBERT S. LEMMON.

THE three kinds of setters—English, Irish and Gordon—are splendidly satisfactory dogs for those who want intelligent, trustworthy, handsome canine members of the household of exceptionally good dispositions. They are large dogs, accustomed to free range, and are at their best when a good daily run can be given them. Don't make the mistake of thinking that they are not excellent house dogs; the point is merely that they are countrymen rather than city dwellers. You can keep one of them healthy in a city apartment, but it isn't fair. A dog that can do his 30 or 40 miles a day in the hunting field, and keep on doing it, deserves a real chance to stretch his legs and expand his lungs.

Of the three types, the English is black and white, orange and white, or black white and tan; the Irish, a solid mahogany red, and the Gordon is black with tan points. All have the same general conformation, graceful, well proportioned and strikingly handsome. Not the least of their attractions is the expression of intelligent affection which comes over their faces in response to a little patting or a friendly word.

NOW, I'LL ASK ONE!

Everybody's doing it! Get in the swim. Test your own knowledge—and that of your friends. It is a delightful game and is educational at the same time. Printed below are ten questions—if any of them stump you, you will find the answers on the last page.

QUESTIONS.

1. What is a papal bull?
2. Who was President of the United States during the Spanish-American war?
3. Is the sponge a form of animal or plant life?
4. For what is Grover Cleveland Bergdoll notorious?
5. Name the States bordering on the Pacific ocean.
6. In what countries are the following automobiles made: (a) Mercedes, (b) Hispano-Suiza, (c) Renault?
7. Where is the original Bridge of Sighs?
8. What is poplin?
9. For what king was the State of Georgia named?
10. What were the names of Columbus' three ships?

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

THE pointer for today is:

EVERY PLAYER SHOULD KNOW WHEN TO DOUBLE INFORMATORILY AND WHEN NOT TO DO SO.

This week I shall submit a series of twenty cases in which the question is, what declaration should be made by West; South having been the Dealer, score love-all. In some of these cases South will have passed, in others bid No Trump, and in others bid a suit; and trying to determine how the variations in South's declaration should affect West's action should be especially interesting because there will be a number of situations in which the question will be whether or not to double informatorily, and nothing in the game of Bridge is more important.

During the week, five hands will be given with four different problems for each hand, which makes up the total of twenty. Each day an answer slip will follow the question; so you can pencil in your answers immediately, think them over, alter them if you choose, and finally compare them with mine, which will appear on the following day. Again I urge you to induce your Bridge-playing friends and club mates to contest with you in this, and thus make a week's game out of it. It also is a great chance for a family contest; you can demonstrate your superiority over friend wife or husband. The test will be to see who, during the week, can name the most answers that will agree with mine.

Today's hand, held by West, follows:

♠ A-10-3
♡ A-J-7
♢ A-K-6-4
♣ 8-5-2

The score is love-all, and the questions are what West should declare after the declarations of South, as stated in the answer slip that follows:

Bridge Answer Slip of April 25.

No. 1. South pass; West should......

No. 2. South one No Trump; West should ....

No. 3.—South one Spade; West should ....

No. 4. South one Heart; West should ....

LORD CHIEF JUSTICE IS "CHIEF JOKESTER"

Worth of Erring Wife Placed at About 60 Cents by Lord Hewart.

London, May 1 (By A. P.).—The Lord Chief Justice of England, Lord Hewart, has become known as the "chief jokester" of the bench. Nothing pleases his lordship more than to make casual humorous remarks while his face assumes the most serious expression.

Divorces by the dozen were suggested the other day by Lord Hewart when hearing a batch of 77 undefended divorce petitions.

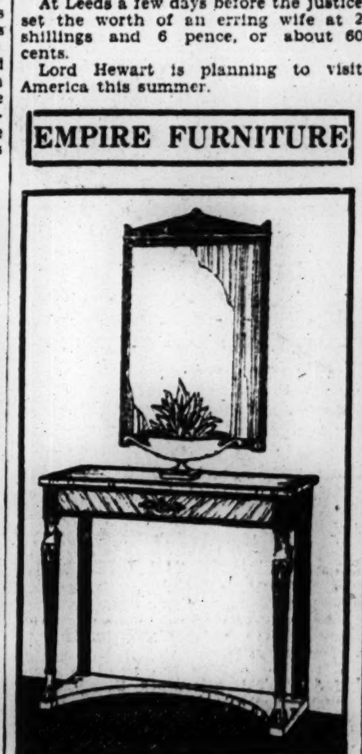

When his lordship had heard 50 of the petitions he remarked:

"If the chancellor of the exchequer really desires an additional source of revenue, as has been reported, he might consider the desirability of issuing decree nisi postage stamps at the post-office."

At Leeds a few days before the justice set the worth of an erring wife at 2 shillings and 6 pence, or about 60 cents.

Lord Hewart is planning to visit America this summer.

EMPIRE FURNITURE

The French Empire period is responsible for this graceful small table with its accompanying mirror. The two pieces would make an engaging hall group in a town apartment of which the decoration is formal in feeling.

The possibility of its use in connection with modernist decoration brings this type of table into the foreground at present. Its square outlines are curiously in keeping with the modernist tendency toward angles, while the delicacy of its design and proportion are a pleasing contrast to the heavy contours of modernist design in general.

A foliage plant is all the decoration required, the group as a whole demanding simplicity both in surroundings and embellishment for its best effect.

Wales and Brother Vie for Dance Honor

London, May 1 (By A. P.).—The Prince of Wales and his younger brother, Prince George, vie with one another for the honor of being the best dancers in the royal family. The Duke of York only dances fairly well, and admits it, but he holds the palm so far as the tennis court is concerned, as none of his brothers has ever been able to fathom his left-hand deliveries.

Prince Henry, the third son of the king, who has just celebrated his twenty-seventh birthday, is easily the best cricketer of the family. Prince Henry, too, is fond of hunting and often rides with the Prince of Wales, but frankly confesses that the heir to the throne is a much better rider than he.

"I fall, or am thrown, nearly as much as Edward," the prince said to some of his friends after a recent hunt, "but the public doesn't hear of it."

LOST GOETHE ART COLLECTION FOUND

88 Drawings and Water Colors Placed in Museum After 30-Year Search.

Berlin, May 1 (By A. P.).—Goethe's remarkable collection of his own 88 black and white drawings and water colors, which the Goethe museum at Weimar sought throughout Germany for 25 years, is now in the museum as a result of a curious coincidence.

The drawings, largely German and Bohemian landscapes, were known to have been presented by Goethe in 1807 to Princess Caroline of Saxe-Weimar with a note reading: "This is how I whiled away my leisure moments during my travels of recent years."

The princess willed the collection to her intimate friend, Christiane von Reitzenstein. Her descendants evidently thought as little of the drawings as did Germany's greatest poet, who virtually apologized for dabbling in such foolishness.

A short time ago a distant relative of the Von Reintzenstein family submitted the drawings to Prof. Hans Wahl, director of the Goethe museum, who had been conducting the search, and asked if they were genuine. He said he found them in an old trunk of family relics. Dr. Wahl immediately recognized his long-sought prize and purchased it.

Birkenhead's Income Is Termed Enormous

London, May 1 (By A. P.)—Lord Birkenhead and other members of the government have been under fire for some time because they engage in journalism while in office. In a recent speech Lord Birkenhead said he took to journalism to supplement "flagging resources."

This statement was taken up by a writer in the Star, who computes that during the last twelve years Lord Birkenhead, as solicitor general, attorney general, lord chancellor and secretary for India, has received "something like £130,000" from the government. That is nearly $650,000, or more than $50,000 a year.

The writer in the Star remarks that this does not take into account Lord Birkenhead's earnings through private legal practice, which are supposed to be enormous.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE GENIUS.

It is an effort to acquire
The grace of skill;
So easily our muscles tire,
So weak the will
That only very few, it seems,
Will serve their dreams.

Great courage is required to sit
By night and read
The ancient history and wit
The mind to feed—
So irksome grows the bond of toil
That few will burn the midnight oil.

Yet who would quit the commonplace
And stand supreme
In knowledge, power and skill and grace
Must keep his dream,
And deaf to pleasure strive to gain
The mastery of hand and brain.

Your genius is a man who works
By night and day
Who never quits the task which irks
For pleasant play,
Though frequently his body tires
He makes the effort art requires.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Almost Has a Relapse

By Jay V. Jay

This is terrible news. The friends of Dad's who were going to chaperon Mitzi to Paris can't go and Aunt Sophia is much concerned. Mitzi is a little too interested in Aunt Sophia's frock of sheer black with side jabot and skirt drape to care much about the lack of a chaperon.

Dad says Mitzi can't possibly go without a chaperon. As Mitzi says, that's absurd. One can easily go to Paris without a chaperon—of course, one can't go without a companion. Even in her sorrow Mitzi looks charming in a sheer frock of coral georgette with a white bodice.

Mitzi is feeling ill. She's really going to have a relapse. And Dad knows that the doctor said a trip abroad was what she needed. How can he be so cruel to her? All for lack of a chaperon! Mitzi is relapsing in a georgette frock with a scalloped cape of the very newest cut.

Dad capitulated. He always does. Mitzi perhaps is right about the chaperon and also about the companion. Mitzi might like to have Polly go with her? Mitzi would and Polly, who has just arrived in a coat of satin trimmed with moire ribbon, would like it very much indeed.

ADORNMENT MANIA 150,000 YEARS OLD, EXPLORER ASSERTS

Necklaces and Face Paint of That Age Discovered in Northern Africa.

MONGOLIA IS TERMED CRADLE OF HUMANITY

Studies of Apes' Behaviorism Said to Show Relationship With Mankind.

Chicago, May 1 (By A. P.).—Woman's love of adornment is inherent and no stronger today than it was 150,000 years ago, Alonzo W. Pond, member of the archeoligical expedition into northern Africa, sponsored by Beloit college, said today.

Mr. Pond collected more than 4,000 specimens which threw light on primitive mankind.

"We found pieces of ostrich egg shells that gave evidence of having been drilled with sharp points of flint for necklaces," he said. "And we found a great many pieces of ancient ochre, and red, yellow and black oxide which showed traces of having been scraped by flint to obtain color to paint faces.

"Some of these probably date farther back than 150,000 years."

Mr. Pond spent several months in the center of the Sahara desert digging up specimens, many of which are believed to belong to the era of transition between the old stone age and the new stone age.

Among the most valuable pieces taken from the desert are several long pick-shaped stones sometimes called fist hatchets, which, according to Mr. Pond, correspond to the oldest stone age specimens ever discovered in Europe.

Mr. Pond said he doubted that the Sahara ever was arable land. "We don't know just what to think about that," he said. "I think the Sahara has been the Sahara a long time. There are evidences of what apparently used to be ancient stream beds, but no sign the desert was ever cultivated."

This expedition into the Sahara, Mr. Pond said, was a preliminary one to learn the possibility of finding specimens worth while. It is possible that another expedition will be undertaken by Beloit college next year.

Man's Cradle in Mongolia.

Philadelphia, April 30 (By A. P.).—The cradle of the human race, where aboriginal man evolved with the ape from common ancestors, was in Mongolia and other regions of central Asia 16,000,000 years ago, believes Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

Addressing the annual meeting of the American Philosophical society last night, Dr. Osborn assailed the theory that man descended from apes, and asserted that this belief "should be banished from our speculations and our literature as totally false and misleading."

Dr. Osborn held that apes and man evolved separately from a common ancestral stock in Oligocene times, and that the evolution continued through the Miocene, Pliocene, Pleistocene and recent geological ages.

He asserted that one of the most compelling arguments in favor of his theory were the recent contributions made in the fields of psychology and behaviorism.

Studies on Behaviorism.

"It is our recent studies on behaviorism of the anthropoid apes as contrasted with the behaviorism of the progenitors of man which compel us to separate the entire ape stock very widely from the human stock."

Dr. Osborn said he believed that the manlike creatures from which the human race was descended may have flourished as long ago as 1,000,000,000 years.

Man and the apes had arboreal ancestors, but man's possession of a thumb made him a tool maker. The apes lack the thumb. The close relationship of apes to man is proved, he said, by blood crystals, by likenesses of the teeth and by many psychic characteristics.

AIR SHOW TO OPEN TODAY; GOOD WILL FLIERS TO RETURN

Coolidge Will Greet Aviators at Bolling Field; 90 Firms to Exhibit.

SPEED AND ACROBATIC STUNTS BY ARMY MEN

Will Rogers Inspects Display; Powerful Lamps to Aid Night Tests.

Thirty thousand persons will throng Bolling field today to witness the opening of Washington's first All-American aircraft show, and the return of the Pan-American fliers from their 20,000-mile "good will" trip through South America, according to estimates made yesterday by officials who are preparing for the display.

The show will open at 2 o'clock when hangars housing many types of planes, and exhibits of 90 manufacturing concerns, will be opened to the public. President Coolidge will greet the "good will" fliers on their arrival at 5 o'clock, if present plans are followed. He will be welcomed by a presidential salute of 21 guns as he arrives at the field.

Will Rogers made a brief inspection of the display yesterday, flying to Bolling field with Pilot Roscoe Turner, in a Waco plane, from Staunton, Va. After a visit to the hangars he climbed into a Curtiss Oriole with Pilot Casey Jones, who flew him to New York.

Porter Adams, president of the National Aeronautic association, and chairman of the Washington committee in charge of the show, met the comedian as he alighted at the field.

Primed to Open Show.

"I flew here all primed to open your show," Rogers told Adams, "but you say the President is going to do that tomorrow when the 'good will' fliers return. It looks so good I hate to pass up the opening of it, even for a President. I will try to fly back here for the fireworks Wednesday night. That night flying sounds better than a radio."

Wednesday night has been set aside by the display committee for a spectacular night flying exhibition, at which time the field will be lighted with four 500,000,000-candlepower flood lights.

About one-half of the exhibits had been installed when Rogers reached the field at 1:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and work was progressing on the others. Airplane arrivals yesterday morning included the Pioneer Instrument Co.'s travel-air instrument ship, the new single-motored cabin plane made by Buhl Co., and a group of service planes.

Two world-record engines were placed on display yesterday. One of the three Wright whirlwind motors, which flew Commander Byrd to the north pole, and the engine which pulled the Wright-Bellanco monoplane to win its world-duration record of over 51 hours, are side by side in a single booth.

Plan Acrobatic Flying.

Six ships of the first pursuit group, from Selfridge field, Mich., will give exhibitions in speed and acrobatic flying at 4 o'clock this afternoon. At 4:30 o'clock a concert will be given by the Army band.

According to tentative plans, Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of War Davis will be the first to welcome the "good-will" fliers when they land at the field at 5 o'clock. They will accompany them to the President's pavilion, where the executive will greet the airmen.

The fliers are Maj. H. A. Dargue, commander of the flight; Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Capt. Arthur B. McDaniel, Lieut. Ennis C. Whitehead, Lieut. Bernard S. Thompson, Lieut. Charles McK. Robinson, Lieut. Leonard D. Weddington and Lieut. Muir S. Fairchild. Capt. Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieut. John W. Benton, of the original "good-will" squadron, were killed in a crash near Buenos Aires.

In the escort of planes accompanying the fliers in their trip from Langley field will be Assistant Secretary of War Davison, and Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air corps. Brig. Gen. S. D. Rockenbach, commanding officer of the District of Washington, is arranging their reception.

Wives to Greet Airmen.

In the throng witnessing the completion of the last lap of the flight will be wives of five of the airmen, delegates to the annual chamber of commerce meeting, 200 delegates from the Pan-American commercial conference, cabinet heads, members of Congress and department heads.

Tomorrow has been designated by the committee as women's day, to encourage women's interest in aviation. At 11:30 o'clock Mrs. Henry A. Berliner, daughter-in-law of the inventor, and wife of Henry A. Berliner, president of the Washington chapter of the National Aeronautical association, will entertain friends in an airplane luncheon over the city.

Guests will include Baroness von Undern, Mrs. Benjamin Cain, jr., Miss Hazel Priest and Mrs. Harvey Burrell, wife of the commanding officer of Bolling field.

2 POLICEMEN, SURPRISING BANDITS, SAVE $700 LOOT

Collins Chases Robbers Several Blocks; Clay Wages Gun Battle.

FLEEING THIEVES SHOOT

Quick action by two policemen, one of whom was forced to engage in a brief gun battle, yesterday, scattered two bandit gangs and thwarted robberies which would have resulted in a loss of more than $700. The patrolmen were Lester Collins, of the Sixth precinct, and Charles Clay, jr., of the Eighth precinct.

A moment after two negroes had entered the cleaning establishment of Hyman Diener, at 4 and 6 G street northwest, by breaking a panel in the rear door and looted the place of $415 in clothing, Patrolman Collins came upon them in an alley in the rear of the store. They fled, dropping the loot as they ran.

Collins chased them several blocks, but the two were the more fleetfooted. Collins collected the loot, which was returned to the store shortly after Mr. Diener reported the robbery.

Patrolman Clay was forced into a gun battle with three colored bandits at Leroy and Phelps places northwest. He came upon the men as they were attempting to pry open a large toolbox, the property of a street car company, which housed tools valued at more than $300.

The men fled to an awaiting automobile at the approach of Clay, opening fire as they fled. Clay returned the fire, but the three escaped. The patrolman was not certain whether he had wounded any of the men, and narrowly escaped being wounded himself.

20,000 FLOCK TO SEE CIRCUS TENTS GO UP FIRST TIME IN YEAR

Tiger Tears Scalp of Worker When Startled by Falling Board.

OLD METHODS MISSING AS ENGINE HOISTS TOP

104-Year-Old Elephant Earns Keep Pushing Wagons and Pulling Ropes.

Washington in automobiles, in street cars and on foot yesterday began its annual pilgrimage to the land of romance and childhood memories that is the circus, and throughout a bright, spring day poured by the thousands into the Camp Meigs circus grounds at Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast to get its foretaste of the thrills promised for today and tomorrow by the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus.

Kindly old ladies leaning on the arms of escorts and bright-eyed and smiling babies in baby carriages who took in the spectacle of a circus going up on the lot with the same interested complacence they regard most pleasant things, men, women and children whose pocketbooks permitted limousines and liveried chauffeurs, and men, women and children whose dusty shoes denied their ownership of such luxury, made up the goodly portion of the city which visited the lot to welcome the American harbinger of spring.

Parking space for automobiles was at a premium for many blocks in the neighborhood and a special detail of policemen was busy throughout the day keeping traffic flowing in an orderly fashion and impressing on street car motorman and motorist that the pedestrian was a king for a day in the vicinity of the circus lot at least. Early yesterday afternoon police and circus men estimated more than 20,000 persons had visited the lot.

One Accident Occurs.

Only one accident marred the day, and so far as that portion of the public which knew about it was concerned, the accident but added to the thrill of the occasion. Jack Davey, 27 years old, of Peru, Ind., the winter home of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, was cleaning the wheels of the cage of Rosie, big Bengal tiger, when a floor board dropped and startled the great cat from her sleep. She jumped and struck with her paw, and Mr. Davey had lost a part of his scalp through which Rosie's claws had scratched.

His injury was not serious, however, and he was taken to Casualty hospital where his wound was dressed and he returned to the circus lot, and he and Rosie resumed their former relationship, with most of the crowd in ignorance of the thrill they had missed.

But the old days have gone. Instead of the eight men who gathered about a tent stake and drove it deep into the ground with blows of sledge hammers delivered accurately in turn with the sound of a machine gun, the Hagenbeck-Wallace show has an engine which does the work of the eight in about half the time.

The "big top," of which circus people speak as churchmen speak of the cathedral, was raised by machinery also, replacing the long lines of "razorbacks" who formerly were needed to raise the main tent.

"Lizzie," the 104-year-old leader of the circus elephant herd, earned her keep to the enjoyment of the crowds who stood about and commented variously as she pulled on ropes and pushed against wagons, helping to get everything in readiness for the first performance at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

1,000 Performers in Circus.

The circus, with its 1,000 men and women performers, razorbacks, roughnecks, skinners, and all the other divisions of the "working departments," ticket takers, freaks, and its 200 animals and scores of the inevitable red and gilt wagons, arrived in Washington from Cumberland at 4:30 o'clock in the morning, and the task of unloading was begun immediately, with the cook tent the first thing unloaded and set up. The entire circus can be unloaded and a performance begun within five hours after the trains carrying it stop. Yesterday, however, the task of preparation was gone about more leisurely and more thoroughly. Several of the wagons still had the mud which they gathered in the course of a Cumberland rainstorm, and these were scoured and made spic and span as befitted the wagons of a circus which opened the annual season in the National Capital.

Mrs. Coolidge is expected to attend the circus this afternoon and the President may accompany her, but that is not certain. Tonight Washington society, officialdom and the diplomatic corps will attend as the guests of the circus management. Two performances will be given today, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock at night, and the same program is to be repeated tomorrow.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS OPEN WEEK'S DRIVE FOR WAR MEMORIAL

Commissioners Urge Public to Subscribe $140,000 to Complete Amount.

THEATER TO DONATE PORTION OF RECEIPTS

Team Captains Plan Luncheon at Willard to Make First Day's Report.

Calling upon the people of Washington to subscribe to the fund now being raised for the erection of the District war memorial, the District commissioners made public a proclamation today pointing out that the District would be recreant to its duty if it fails in its support of the project.

The commissioners' proclamation ushered in a week of effort on the part of a large group of men and women of Washington who are seeking to secure through public subscription the sum of $140,000, which, added to the $60,000 now in hand, will assure erection of the planned memorial in West Potomac park.

The proclamation by the commissioners follow:

"The commissioners of the District of Columbia call upon the citizens of the District to contribute to the erection of a memorial to be placed in Potomac park to those men and women from the District of Columbia who served in the world war. A citizens' committee has been appointed to secure such a fund and will call upon all citizens of the District for contributions. This worthy object should enlist the support of the people. Most of the communities of the United States have already erected such a memorial, and the District of Columbia would be recreant to its duty to those who gave their lives to the service of the country if no fitting memorial was erected in the Capital City of the country to commemorate this sacrifice on their part.

"Signed:

"PROCTOR L. DOUGHERTY,
"SIDNEY F. TALIAFERRO,
"W. E. R. COVELL (Acting)."
